Jury In Pantages Girl Case Is Dismissed By Judge

DEADLOCKED AT 9-3 FOR ACQUITTAL

Nine Men and Three Women Discharged After Deliberating 10 Hours
UNABLE TO AGREE
District Attorney's Office Undecided If Case to Be Set for New Trial

SAN DIEGO, June 18.—(UP)—A jury which has been trying the case of Alexander Pantages and three others accused of morals offenses, was dismissed at noon today when it was unable to reach an agreement on the guilt or innocence of the four.

The nine men and three women had been deliberating 10-12 hours and was reported to have stood 9 to 3 for acquittal for all defendants on all eleven ballots.

The three jurors who deadlocked the panel were Foreman Sumner, William Roland and Fred Steffen. All agreed Pantages should be acquitted of both counts, one juror said, but when the three men declared someone should be convicted of conspiracy, no compromise verdict could be reached.

The age of the Nitto girl was the stumbling block for a verdict of either guilt or innocence, it was admitted.

Pantages, with Jesse H. Shreve, a business partner; Olive Clark Day and William Jobelmann, were accused of contributing to the delinquency of Lydia Nitto, an asserted minor, and conspiracy to violate the juvenile court laws through the alleged contributing acts.

Members of the district attorney's staff were undecided if the case would be set for retrial, in the absence of District Attorney Thomas Whelan, who was attending a convention in Yosemite park.

The jury stood nine to three for acquittal on all ballots, it was announced by Foreman William Sumner.

The charges grew out of an alleged party held in El Cortez hotel here October 26, last, which was arranged by John P. Mills, former business partner of Pantages and Shreve.

Mills a month ago pleaded guilty to two counts of contributing to the delinquency of the Nitto girl and Helen Livingston, whereupon three additional counts of conspiracy were dismissed.

It was brought out in testimony of Mills that he planned the party for Pantages to get the theatrical man in a good humor so he would put up funds to extend an $80,000 note owed by the three, and held by George Daley, contractor.

Mills admitted he telephoned to Mrs. Day in Los Angeles and asked her to bring two girls to this city for the party, adding that "Pantages still likes the ladies."

He claimed he made the telephone call from the home of Shreve, with the latter's full knowledge and consent, but Shreve denied this.

Arriving at the hotel for his business conference, Pantages found Daley had not appeared, and a short time later he and Shreve met the Nitto and Livingston girls with Mrs. Day in front of a theater.

Returning to the hotel, the group congregated in Pantages' room and had several drinks, but at his insistence, they all left except

PRESIDENT S PLEASED WITH WESTERN TOUR

Hoover on His Way Back to White House to Fight Against Slump

BOARD PRESIDENT Hoover's Special Train, en Route to Washington, June 18.—(UP)—Indicating satisfaction with the results of his midwestern tour, President Hoover was on his way back to Washington today facing a summer of work with efforts to stimulate recovery from the depression as his big objective.

It was stated on behalf of the president that he was thoroughly gratified at the reception he received in Indianapolis, Ind., Marion and Columbus, Ohio, Springfield, Ill., and numerous cities at which his train paused for a bare word of greeting.

Mr. Hoover's main objective now will be to set his house in order administratively and politically for the stormy winter ahead when the new congress comes in with Democrats lacking only one or two votes of controlling both houses and alert to turn every possible situation to their advantage in the approaching presidential campaign.

President Hoover, it is now clear, will attempt to shape the Republican campaign into tried and tested directions, emphasizing tariff protection, individual initiative, avoidance of government experiments with doles and other forms of direct depression relief, with possibly an attempt to revise the federal reserve act to curb stock market speculation in the future.

Mr. Hoover has no intention, it is indicated, of going out to meet the progressives with any compromises. He appears to have resolved to meet the political crisis as William Howard Taft met his, refusing to bend before the storm.

Mr. Hoover has been seen by several hundred thousand persons, counting in train at brief stops. He has taken advantage of the opportunity at a few of these stops to talk into conversation with those around the observation platform, but few incidents of special interest have occurred.

REPAIR ENGINE ON POLAR SUBMARINE

WASHINGTON, June 18.—(UP)—One engine on the polar submarine Nautilus has been repaired and the craft is proceeding toward Queenstown, Ireland, partly under its own power, Captain Dutton of the battleship Wyoming reported today to the navy department. The Wyoming has been towing the Nautilus since it broke down in mid-Atlantic Sunday.

The towing line broke yesterday. Captain Dutton radioed, carrying away the submarine's bow fittings. The line was refastened, however, and with the aid of the Nautilus' port motor the two ships were making eight knots an hour in good weather. At this rate they should reach Queenstown Saturday.

U. S. Consulate In Leipzig Stoned By Communist Youths

LEIPZIG, Germany, June 18.—(UP)—The United States consulate was stoned last night by a group of youths, believed by the police to be communists.

The attackers broke windows. They escaped before police arrived. Communists recently demonstrated against death sentences imposed on eight Negroes in Alabama for attacking two white girls.

DIVIDENDS DECLARED

SAN FRANCISCO, June 18.—(UP)—Approximately 23,823,000 outstanding shares of Transamerica corporation stock were on a 40 cents a share annual basis today as the result of a quarterly dividend of 10 cents declared by directors here.

In the preceding quarter a dividend of 25 cents a share was paid, and directors estimated that the lowered dividend will mean a saving to the corporation of $2,500,000.

Game of Death Fatal For Swimmer

BAKERSFIELD, June 18.—(UP)—John Callen, 11, of Kansas City, Mo., is dead here today, the victim of a grim game of death which he believed he was only "playing."

With a group of other youngsters, the Callen boy was playing "drowned man" in the Beale park plunge here. All went under water several times for long periods.

The last time that young Callen submerged, however, he stayed under too long and at the end of five minutes aid was called.

A three-hour attempt at artificial respiration by the fire department inhalator squad was futile.

The boy was visiting his aunt, Mrs. J. R. Heston, of this city.

ROUND UP OF CAPONE GANG STARTS TODAY

Government Sends Scores of Agents Out to Get Indicted Men

CHICAGO, June 18.—(UP)—The United States government began today to "mop up" what is left of Al Capone's gang.

With the "big bullet" himself under a plea of guilty, leaving the lesser lights of his gang to shift for themselves, the government sent scores of agents out into the underworld to round up the 68 other gangsters who were indicted with their chief and charged with 5000 violations of prohibition laws.

Federal prosecutors promised that this final thrust against gangland would snap the last bond that has bound Chicago to the underworld.

By the time the gang leader enters Leavenworth penitentiary shortly after June 30 many of his thugs, liquor peddlers, fixers, vice-mongers and gunmen also will be under sentence, federal agents predicted.

Meanwhile, Capone's reputation as a "trader" took another slump when federal officials denied definitely that the gang leader had "made a deal with them."

"We have made no promise to be easy with Capone," said Assistant District Attorney Victor La Rue, who pressed the liquor conspiracy indictment against him. "If pleading guilty, he simply threw himself on the mercy of the court, and we see no reason why he should be granted any unusual amount of leniency."

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson therefore may mete out any sentence he deems proper, within the legal limits, when Capone appears before him June 30. The maximum punishment which the gangster may receive is 34 years at hard labor and fines totalling $90,000 on both prohibition and income tax charges.

Such severe sentences never have been imposed, however. Capone's term probably will be much shorter—probably from two and one-half to five years imprisonment and a $10,000 fine.

SHIP'S COOK FREE OF MURDER CHARGE

SAN DIEGO, June 18.—(UP)—Henry C. Yardley, ship's cook, was freed on a charge of murdering Mrs. W. D. "Diamond Dolly" Bibbens today, when Justice of the Peace Eugene Daney Jr. refused to hold him to answer to the charge at completion of his preliminary hearing.

Yardley, admittedly a friend of the woman whose pajama-clad body was found April 23, offered no defense himself. His attorney, J. E. McKinley, contended himself with an uncontroverted statement that Yardley had left this city for the east April 15. Inability of the prosecution to show Mrs. Bibbens had been killed on or before that day brought his acquittal. Yardley was arrested early last month in Uniontown, Pa.

MINERS CLASH WITH GUARDS IN OHIO MINE

One Seriously Injured and Three Arrested During Fights Today

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., June 18.—(UP)—A series of pitched battles occurred between strikers and mine guards in an outburst of disorder in the Belmont county coal strike area today.

One man was injured seriously and three persons were arrested in the disturbances.

The most serious disturbance occurred at the Florence mine near Martin's Ferry, where mine guards employed tear gas bombs, crowbars and pick handles to repulse the pickets. One striker was severely hurt by head blows inflicted by a crowbar. He was taken to a Martin's Ferry hospital. One striker was arrested.

Further outbreaks were feared from a county-wide strike meeting which has been scheduled for late today by the National Miners' union at the Banrock mine.

Other disorders were reported at the Elaine mine, where two men were arrested but no one was hurt. At this mine, pickets caused 30 per cent of the workers to retire and join in the strike. A minor clash followed the walk-out but no casualties occurred.

Other mild disorders were reported in other sections of Belmont county, seat of the present trouble in the Ohio bituminous fields.

Decision On L. A. Hospital Charges Due In Few Days

LOS ANGELES, June 18.—(UP)—Decision of the Los Angeles county board of supervisors on the charges of inefficiency brought against Dr. Neal N. Wood, superintendent of the county hospital, will be made in several days, Chairman Henry Wright declared today.

The board, as a result of a seven weeks' hearing, will decide either to retain Dr. Wood in his present capacity or dismiss him. The supervisors at the close of the trial refused to act on Supervisor Frank L. Shaw's motion that Dr. Wood be dismissed immediately.

To The Governor Of California:

The atmosphere created by yourself at the so-called hearing, held in your office yesterday is believed by the people of this county to indicate a lack of desire and intention on your part to serve the people according to their wishes, but on the contrary, it appears to be your intention to serve the large corporations who now have a strangle hold upon this state.

At the meeting yesterday there were more than fifty of our leading citizens of this county, including mayors, councilmen, secretaries and presidents of Chambers of Commerce from practically every city and community in the county, as well as our Supervisors, Assemblyman and State Senator. These people, with one exception were there for the purpose of asking you to sign the bill. They had no opportunity to be heard, because of the method of handling the meeting.

You permitted the meeting to be conducted in such a manner that no speaker on behalf of the bill could present to you in an orderly manner the arguments in favor of this bill. You permitted our representatives to be heckled and harassed by the opponents of this bill, who do not even live in this county.

You listened with diligent ear to the manufactured protests from people brought before you by the large financial corporations from cities forty to fifty miles from Orange county.

You ignored the wishes and desires of the people directly interested in this bill.

You ignored the unanimous wish of both houses of our State Legislature, usurping to yourself the power to nullify the deliberate wish of the representatives of the people as expressed by them.

You finally, by deliberate act requested the counsel for the Standard Oil Co., who now are taking from the people of the State their rightful heritage, through the oil wells now drilled on the ocean front and along the high tide line, to close the argument with words suited to your very apparent preconceived intentions.

Lastly you, by your words stated in effect, that the people of this state and county have no right to protect their natural resources against exploitation by the private financial interests of the State, but that you wish to give the millions of dollars underlying public property, to the large corporations.

We believe you did not understand the wishes of this county, but you still have the power, until midnight Friday, to sign this bill. If you do not do so, we will be forced to the irresistible conclusion that your interests and desires are not to serve the people but the corporations.

Lupe Velez Says 'Yes' On Weddings

CLEVELAND, June 18.—(UP)—Lupe Velez is becoming a "Hollywood yes-woman" and thinks this "marriage and engagement stuff" is a lot of "hokey."

By a "Hollywood Yes-woman," the diminutive movie actress explained to reporters today, she means one who readily admits to preening stories that she is wedded rather than trouble herself with denials.

"At first I got mad and denied things," she said. "But now it doesn't bother me any more. If the reporters come in now and say 'We hear you're married,' I say yes and I don't even know who is my husband."

L. A. POLICEMAN UNDER ARREST AS MURDERER

Detective Lieutenant Accused of Killing Woman During Party

LOS ANGELES, June 18.—(UP)—The murder of Mrs. Grace Murphy Duncan, who was brutally beaten to death at a hotel party, was followed later today by the arrest of Detective Lieutenant Eddie Nolan, who was said to have been identified as her assailant.

Nolan was held under suspicion of murder after other guests at the party identified him as the "drunk" man who beat and kicked Mrs. Duncan.

Prior to the fatal party, Nolan is said to have quarreled with Mrs. Duncan, his alleged sweetheart, while discussing at a conference in Nolan's room whether Mrs. Duncan's daughters should be sent east to school. Mrs. Duncan, a resident of Glendale, has two children, Edna, 17, and Mary, 13.

Mr. George R. Burselon, of San Francisco, was a witness to the quarrel, she said, having had dinner with them in Nolan's room. She said that they had been drinking and that finally Nolan became so enraged that he threw Mrs. Duncan out into the hall.

Dallas Pastor Is Hanged But Fate Is Kind

Suspended From Rafter Over His Pulpit—Saved As Rope Stretches

DALLAS, June 18.—(UP)—B. P. Brown, supply pastor of the North Dallas Baptist church, was kidnapped shortly after midnight, taken to the church and hanged from a ceiling fan. As a new rope which stretched was used, Brown's toes touched the floor and he was alive when found at 4 a. m.

The hanging followed a factional fight in the church. Police blamed members of the congregation for the kidnapping.

The Rev. Mr. Brown, a man of 30, was badly strangled by the rope and was in bed today recovering. He was found by police who were notified by Mrs. Brown after her husband failed to return at his regular hour from the Adolphus hotel where he supplants his ministerial earnings by serving as baggage clerk.

"I work every night until 12 o'clock," the Rev. Mr. Brown said today. "Last night I took the bus for my home as usual. When I got off, across the street from the church and started to walk to my home, a few hundred yards away, a man ran up to me and said 'If you run I'll shoot you dead.'"

"He had a big nickel-plated pistol in his hand," a handkerchief over his face. He made me go with him to a deep shadow beside the church building.

"Then he pushed me through one of the windows into the basement. The windows are large. It isn't difficult. When we were inside, the man made me go upstairs into the main auditorium. There were three other men waiting for us. Those men also had handkerchiefs tied over their faces. It was very dark in the church and I couldn't see them distinctly. Two of them grabbed me and stripped off all my clothes. Though it was a warm night, I shivered some. The four men didn't talk. One produced a new rope.

"Have you any dying request to make," one said. It was the first thing any of them had said in the

VETERANS MEET IN VALLEJO NEXT YEAR

LONG BEACH, June 18.—(UP)—Vallejo today had won the three-cornered contest to secure next year's convention of the California-Nevada division of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Las Vegas and Sacramento made strong bids but when the count was completed Vallejo was shown to be the favorite although only by a small margin.

Election of officers was completed last night. The following are those newly elected: Commander-in-Chief, Val D. Brandon; senior vice commander, Charles O. Carlson, San Francisco; junior vice commander, A. B. Munford, Bakersfield; department quartermaster, Charles Gavin, San Francisco; judge advocate, Joseph Malby, Long Beach; department chaplain, James Richardson, Marysville; department surgeon, Dr. J. Simple Services For 77 Victims Of Ship Disaster

NANTES, France, June 18.—(UP)—Simple funeral services for 77 of the victims of the pleasure boat Saint Philibert, sunk in one of the worst disasters of the sea in recent years, were held here today.

Aristide Briand, foreign minister and a native of Nantes, and Louis de Chappedelaine, minister of merchant marine, were among the throng that crowded the great hall in the Duchesse Anne's castle where the brief services were held. Practically the entire population of Nantes sought to attend and the city was silent and business stopped in mourning.

Priests and pastors blessed the coffins after which members of the families of the victims took those who had been identified to cemeteries for burial.

WILL ROGERS SAYS:

BEVERLY HILLS, June 18.—(To the Editor of The Register:—) Heard Mr. Hoover over the radio at Lincoln's Tomb. He is making a monumental tour of the country visiting the tombs of dead Republicans, and incidentally to count the live ones left. You'd be surprised the amount of good Republicans dead. Poor Franklin D. Roosevelt, when he launches his campaign, can't find enough Democratic monuments to get his policies over.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

VANDERBILT, JR. CHASES RIVAL WITH REVOLVER

Peter Arno, Former Friend of Author, Wins Race to Reach Home

RENO, Nev., June 18.—(UP)—The story of how Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., social regent, brandished an unloaded gun as he chased Peter Arno, comedy cartoonist, was recited in three versions today at headquarters of the three principals.

Just what happened in the fashionable sector where the Vanderbilt and Arno homes are located remained a mystery, but it was generally agreed that there was a race and that Arno won by a bigger margin than Man-o-War beat Sir Barton.

Vanderbilt said the pursuit across the desert sands at the edge of town began when he saw Arno early Monday with Mrs. Vanderbilt. The young author, who also is a Nevada state policeman, seized a gun and confronted his wife and the cartoonist.

Shuler Confers With Radio Body On KGEF License

WASHINGTON, June 18.—(UP)—The Rev. Bob Schuler, Los Angeles, conferred today with members of the Federal Radio commission regarding the disputed status of his radio station and said he believed a decision in the case would not be reached until fall.

Schuler's station, KGEF, is operating on a temporary license pending the commission's action on his application for renewal.

Chief Examiner Ellis A. Yost has not completed his recommendation and probably will not submit his report until the commission reconvenes after a summer recess.

Schuler came here after receiving a degree at Emory and Henry college, Emory, Va. He said he wanted to get acquainted with members of the radio commission and would remain until next Monday before going on to New York.

ELEVEN HURT IN MISHAPS OVER COUNTY

Wid-west Disasters Numbering Eight Reported During Last 24 Hours

OVER EMBANKMENTS

Four Orange County People Lose Lives in Santa Ana Canyon Accidents

TWO MEN WERE KILLED when the car in which they were riding plunged over a 200-foot embankment at Sulphur Slide, in the Santa Ana canyon last night, and two other Orange county residents, both women, are dead as the result of another crash near the Riverside county line earlier yesterday.

In a series of other automobile accidents which occurred in the county during the past 24 hours, 11 other persons were hurt in eight accidents, investigation today revealed.

Fred Bastady, 40, prominent Buena Park citizen and well known rancher here for years, and Hans Graf, 42, of Atwood, were killed at 7:50 o'clock last night when their car plunged off the Santa Ana canyon road. A 13-year-old son of Bastady, who was riding in the back seat of the machine at the time miraculously escaped injury.

According to a report made to the coroner by D. D. Adams, state traffic officer, who was at the scene of the accident soon afterward, the Bastady machine rounded a curve in the road at too fast a speed. The car met a big truck at the turn and in an effort to avoid a collision, the car was swung from the road, plowing through railing and dropping a distance of 200 feet to the bottom of the canyon.

The truck was being driven by O. F. Lee of 249 Park avenue.

STATE PLACES BAN ON USED COFFINS

SACRAMENTO, June 18.—(UP)—No California citizen is going to be buried in a used coffin.

This comforting assurance was given today by Dr. Giles S. Porter, state director of public health. It resulted from a complaint that a San Diego undertaker had been in the habit of using the same coffin for more than one person, and had been collecting double fees.

Such a practice is against the laws of the state and decency, Porter held, and any mortician found guilty of such violation will be prosecuted.

VANCOUVER, B. C., June 18.—(UP)—Capt. James G. Hall, New York, took off at 8:20 a. m. today in his Lockheed Altair high-speed plane on an attempted record non-stop flight to Agua Caliente. He hopes to better the record of Tex Rankin of seven hours, 49 minutes and six seconds.

To Launch Summer Band Concert Season Tonight

BIG AUDIENCE TO HEAR BIRCH PARK PROGRAM

The Santa Ana Municipal band will begin this season's concerts in Birch park tonight with a series of varied numbers. The program will begin at 7:30 p. m. Both classical and modern selections will be played, ranging from Beethoven through Offenbach and Strauss to the modern American composer, Victor Herbert.

Large crowds are expected to attend the concert this season as the band has gained distinctive recognition throughout the country in the fine caliber of programs it has presented in past seasons. According to Harry Hanson, president and manager of the band, the program tonight will include two special solos in addition to the regular program. Maurice Phillips, local baritone, will sing Tosti's "Gongoli" and D. C. Clifton, director of the band, will be heard in one of his popular trombone solos. He will play "My Hope," by Liberatori.

Calvin Coolidge Says . . .

By CALVIN COOLIDGE
NORTHAMPTON, Mass., June 18.—It is a very sound business principle to let the other fellow make a profit. That was the essence of the slogan we heard a few years ago about passing prosperity around. The same thought is involved in paying good wages and fair prices. Cutting prices calls for cutting wages in the end.

This is often the basis of the complaint against large concerns. When they control a large percentage of production they control the prices of the raw and unfinished materials used in that trade. They become almost the sole market for them. Under this condition there is a strong tendency in the name of efficiency and good management to squeeze out the small concerns furnishing these materials. But it is not usually good business.

We are all so much a part of a common system of life that the business world is not healthy unless we all have a chance. A profit made by squeezing some one else out of a livelihood will almost surely turn up later as a loss. The great asset in trade is good will. The best producer of good will is the profit which others make.

cept the Nitto girl, who remained in the room for several minutes before rejoining the others. It was during this period that Pantages was alleged to have made improper advances to the girl, which was the foundation for the charge against him. At the same time, it was alleged, Shreve and the Livingston girl were alone in another room, and Shreve at a later date faces trial on a charge of conspiracy to attack her, together with charges of conspiracy to contribute to the delinquency of the girl and conspiracy to violate the juvenile court laws. Co-defendants in the latter trial are Mrs. Day and Josephine. Pantages is not a defendant.

The chief defense attack was upon the age of the Nitto girl, who claimed she was only 17 years old, and upon the fact that as she was an accomplice to the alleged acts, her testimony and that of Miss Livingston and Mills needed corroboration. An affidavit signed by the Nitto girl when she sought employment as a taxi-dancer, gave her age as 23 years, and was the chief defense exhibit. Several police officers who had questioned her, and friends, said she had told them she was 22 years old.

Bellflower. Lee reported to local authorities that he did not know whether the automobile actually struck his truck or not.

The bodies of the two men were taken from the canyon by other motorists almost immediately. Bastady was instantly killed and Graf lived only a few minutes. He died on the way to the hospital.

Coroner Charles D. Brown announced today that he would hold a double inquest over the bodies of the two men at the Seale Undertaking parlors, in Fullerton, tomorrow. The time for the inquest has not been set. Both bodies were taken to the parlors last night. The Bastady party was on their way to the valley at the time of the accident it was revealed today.

Two Women Killed
Mrs. J. Colmstock, 30, was instantly killed and Mrs. William Eden, of 207 Agate street, Balboa, died several hours later, as the result of an automobile accident in the Santa Ana canyon yesterday. The crash took place near the Riverside county line, when their car ran off the road over an embankment.

The Edens and Mrs. Colmstock, who was a cousin of Mrs. Eden, were on their way to Riverside from their beach home at the time. The car was being driven by Eden, who was reported to have escaped with minor cuts and bruises. Mrs. Colmstock was dead when motorists reached the badly wrecked machine. Mrs. Eden was taken to the Riverside city hospital, where she died of her injuries early today, it was reported. Eden was discharged from the hospital today.

The bodies of both Mrs. Colmstock and Mrs. Eden were being held in a Riverside mortuary today pending an investigation and inquest by the Riverside county coroner. Eden is well known in Balboa where he is employed as night ferryman for Commodore J. A. Beek.

Visitors Hurt
Three Oregon visitors were reported badly hurt at 9:40 p. m. yesterday, when the car in which they were riding collided with a car driven by E. T. Russell, 40, of 1655 West 75th street, Los Angeles, on the Coast highway at a fill just west of Corona Del Mar.

The Rev. J. M. Johnson, 59, of Central Point, Ore., was driving the visitor's machine. Mrs. L. P. Grimes, 35, Oliver Grimes, 3, and Mrs. J. M. Johnson were reported cut and bruised. According to a report made to the state police, the Russell car ran off the right side of the road and collided squarely with the Johnson machine. No arrests were made.

J. O. Householder, 52, of Anaheim Route No. 2, was reported seriously injured at 5 p. m. yesterday when the car he was driving collided with a machine driven by Warren Nelson, 18, of 233 1-2 West Commonwealth avenue, Fullerton, at Gilbert street and La Palma Drive, west of Fullerton.

The man was taken to his home, where it was said that he was suffering from severe internal injuries and all ribs on one side of the body were crushed. He was not expected to recover.

A man and a woman were seriously hurt at 4 a. m. today when the car in which they were riding ran off the road between Anaheim and Fullerton and crashed into a tree. Both are in the Orange county hospital.

Two Injured
The man, Harold Johnson, 32, of 1309 1-2 West Fourth street, Santa Ana, suffered a badly cut head, doctors taking 16 stitches in his forehead to close one wound. The woman, Adaline Stewart, of 308 Garfield street, suffered a badly lacerated hip and cuts and bruises about the head and shoulders. It was reported.

R. A. Williams, 37, of 418 West Sixth street, Santa Ana, suffered a broken pelvis bone yesterday when the car he was driving collided with a machine driven by Mrs. F. E. Saylor, of 410 East Washington avenue, at Seventeenth and Flower streets, according to a report filed with the state police.

Williams was taken to his home where it was said his condition was satisfactory.

G. L. Tredo, a sailor, suffered a fractured skull when the automobile driven by J. D. Johnstone, another sailor, turned over at the north end of San Clemente at 1 a. m. today. John Ogonewski, sailor, suffered cuts and bruises. Johnstone was locked up by Capt. Harry Comber on a charge of drunken driving.

Comber said he found 10 bottles of beer in the car. Johnstone is being held for naval authorities.

In an accident in front of the San Clemente hospital at 5 a. m. today, Harold McKinney suffered severe bruises. His car turned over three times. His injuries are not considered serious.

Arno, famous for his line captions in humorous cartoons, apparently was so taken aback that he couldn't even speak a line and it was Mrs. Vanderbilt who broke the silence.

"Look out, Peter, he'll kill you," she screamed—then the chase was on.

Vanderbilt at first told the United Press he had not shot at Arno, but today, after a talk with Sam Platt, his attorney, he said:

"I would have shot Arno if the gun had been loaded."

Arno was still in hiding today and his palatial home was occupied only by a Japanese houseboy. Before leaving, he issued one of his famous one line statements.

"I knew nothing whatever about the affair of Monday morning until today," he said.

Vanderbilt, now staying at the exclusive Riverside hotel, insisted his story of the chase was essentially correct. He intimated that "some court action may be taken."

"Bad blood" existed between the two, it appeared, and Arno asked for police protection. Vanderbilt showed a United Press reporter a black jack he said he always carried "for protection", and added that he has hired a special police guard for his home.

Vanderbilt was working on a novel Monday, he said, when he saw Arno drive up in front with Mrs. Vanderbilt.

The author shouted and brandished the revolver. Arno retreated, Vanderbilt after him. Accounts of the chase differ here, it being variously reported that it was conducted both by automobile and by foot. The paramount fact was that Arno reached his home first.

"About half way to the Arno home Vanderbilt realized the enormity of the situation, got himself together and returned home," Attorney Platt said. "Nothing happened and there was no gunfire."

Junior Police To Be Supplied Caps

An appropriation to cover purchase of caps for the force of 90 junior police officials recruited from city school students as a safety patrol, was made at the board of education meeting this week, on a motion by Rolla Hays, after the matter had been presented by Marion Youel, of the board. The caps cost 45 cents each. Badges for the junior police force have been provided by the city.

The two women were later invited to another room in the hotel where three men were listening to the radio, police said. Mrs. Burleson said she knew one of them as James F. Smith, of Los Angeles, the other men were said to be Jimmie Balfe and R. V. Williams, New York salesmen.

It was shortly before midnight that Nolan broke in on the party, Balfe said. He told police he had drunk a quart of whisky and some gin earlier in the evening so that he was staggering when he entered the room where Mrs. Duncan and Mrs. Burleson were dancing alternately with the three men.

At the time of Nolan's entrance Mrs. Duncan was dancing with Williams, according to the story told by Balfe. Nolan, Balfe said, struck Williams twice, in the eye and on the mouth.

Williams disengaged himself and retired to a bathroom where he locked the door against his assailant.

Balfe told police that Nolan then turned on Mrs. Duncan and struck her about the face. She was knocked to the floor by a blow from the detective's pistol and then brutally kicked, according to Balfe.

church, my first intimation that they intended to kill me."

Brown said he heard an automobile pass outside and make a gesture of escape only to have one of the captors kick him and another slap him across the face.

They then looped the rope around his neck and carried the nude man to his pulpit.

From there they tossed the rope over the ceiling after hoisting Brown two feet in the air. Another captor brought a chair and placed it underneath Brown just a fraction of an inch below his toe. Brown struggled to reach it, but could not, he said, and the kidnappers chuckled and departed.

Slowly choking in the darkness, Brown tried to reach the chair again a few minutes later and was surprised to find that he could. The rope had begun to stretch.

TIDELAND BILL WILL RECEIVE 'POCKET VETO'

Gov. James Rolph Jr., elected as "the people's governor," yesterday threw his hat in the ring along with that of the Standard Oil company, and after the Orange county delegation had been heckled by opponents of the bill when they attempted to speak in its behalf, decided to "let it lay just as it is" and refused to sign House Bill No. 4.

Representative Ted Craig's bill granting Huntington Beach the tidelands in front of the city. The governor's refusal to sign the bill meant that it would die by way of the "pocket veto" route through lack of his signature. The pocket veto becomes effective June 19, it is stated.

The meeting yesterday was called, ostensibly, as a hearing of both sides, favoring and opposing the measure but, according to members of the Orange county delegation, changed, through adequate direction into a humiliating session during which representatives of Huntington Beach and Orange county were not accorded courtesies of the chair sufficient to allow them to present their side of the argument. Their portion was constant interruptions and heckling by opponents of the measure.

The hearing was held in the state offices in the Associated Realty building, Olive and Sixth streets, Los Angeles. About 40 interested citizens of Huntington Beach testified to their desire for the governor's signature on the bill, which was passed unanimously by both houses of the legislature.

When City Attorney Lew Blodgett, of Huntington Beach, asked that those from that city raise their hands and also that those from Orange county raise their hands and hands went up by the dozen.

Governor Rolph said: "That does not make any difference, the fact that many want it. The question is whether or not it is good for all the people."

A delegation of disappointed lot owners from the Venice oil field were present and voiced opposition to the bill, claiming they feared it would create oil drilling on the tidelands at Huntington Beach and that the wells would spoil the beach at Venice 40 miles away. The Venice delegation was loud in its claims that oil drilling had injured property values, that they could not get their lots drilled. All admitted that there had been no beach drilling at Venice.

Stanton Opposed

Phil A. Stanton, state highway commissioner, made a plea against granting Huntington Beach the tidelands. He said the state should keep the tidelands if they were valuable and should drill them or make the Standard Oil company give the state a share of the oil produced on the Standard lease offsetting the tidelands. He said the people of Huntington Beach had a chance to get rich on oil drilling and if they had not done so, it was their own fault.

Stanton said he owned portions of the beach at Seal Beach and that beach oil drilling by the city would spoil the beach at Seal Beach. He addressed W. T. Newland and said, "Bill Newland, if I had made the money you have off of oil, I wouldn't have to worry any more." Newland answered that the city and state were entitled to receive the oil under the state tidelands and that the Huntington Beach people were there to appeal for and to protect their rights.

"Everybody in Huntington Beach is in favor of this bill except one man, and there he stands right over there, Ed Stevens, member of the city council," said Newland, pointing to Councilman Stevens.

"Yes, and I'm still here," replied Councilman Stevens. Mayor Elson G. Conrad was treated most cordially by Governor Rolph, who said: "Mayor Conrad you know my fondness for mayors. You take this seat." He arose and led Conrad to the governor's chair. As the governor greeted other visitors at the hearing, as they filed into the room where they were to take place, Mayor Conrad vacated the chair and another chair was given him, a woman volunteering her chair. "Mayor Conrad would not take a chair from a woman," the governor declared, refusing the proffered chair. Another chair was passed forward and Conrad was seated.

The governor then asked if there were any protests against this bill. H. S. McKay Jr. arose and without stating his name, said: "I represent the Hearst papers, the Los Angeles Examiner and the Los Angeles Herald. In their behalf I desire to protest this bill, as it will cause all the beaches on the California coast to be spoiled by oil." Following this protest from the Hearst papers against an Orange county city receiving a grant from the state of its tidelands, the Venice lot owners, or a half dozen of them, speaking one at a time and sometimes two or three at once, started the firework and talked a lot about the Venice oil field and the polluting of the beach at Venice by oil wells at Huntington Beach.

Called on by the governor for a statement and asked the direct question as to whether or not the city wanted the tidelands for oil drilling, Mayor Conrad said in part: "The question of drilling for oil has never come before the council officially. That question has not up to this time entered into the matter. The city is asking that it be granted its tidelands as other cities on the coast have been granted their tidelands."

"I am opposed to beach drilling," the governor replied. "There is an effort to bring about effective oil conservation. I see no need of beach drilling. The state has one of the finest laws now to regulate oil drilling when there is no need for the oil." (The governor was referring to the Sharnkey bill). "If the city wants its tidelands," the governor said, "then the bill is a fair measure, but if the city wants the tidelands merely for oil drilling, then I am opposed to the bill and think it would be a means of preventing the use of the beaches for pleasure purposes by the people not only of Huntington Beach but of all Orange county and nearby counties."

Mayor Conrad said the beach contained 16 producing wells being operated at this time and that if later on there should come up the question of drilling the tidelands, the matter would be handled as seemed to be the most benefit to the people, but that at this time the question at issue was the granting of the tidelands to the city.

Blodgett Appeals

City Attorney L. W. Blodgett made an appeal to the governor to sign the bill. He presented a series of pictures showing the proximity of the Standard Oil wells to the tidelands and showing that the beach had been drilled to the very edge of the tidelands, a bulkhead built to enable the Standard to drill the wells, being so near the tidelands as to cause a question as to whether the bulkhead did not encroach on the tidelands. Blodgett read and presented many newspaper editorials and news articles from Orange county newspapers. He also presented a great many endorsements of the tidelands bill by chambers of commerce and city councils of coast cities from Wilmington and San Pedro to San Clemente.

The city attorney asked that Ted Craig be heard on the bill and Representative Craig made a plea for the bill explaining its purpose and plan and while admitting it provided for oil drilling, said that only offset drilling would be done. Senator Neil Edwards also spoke in favor of the signing of the bill by the governor, pointing out that it did not concern Venice or Los Angeles but applied only to Huntington Beach. He said he had introduced the bill in the senate and that it had carried with only one senator speaking against it.

Attorney Oscar Lawler, of the Standard Oil company, urged the governor to not sign the bill. He said that the bill was intended to bring about oil drilling on the tidelands and that his company had offered to withdraw its reservations withholding the oil rights on that portion of the beach which had been under negotiations for sale to the city. He said these reservations had been inserted in order that if the beach was drilled, then the Standard Oil would drill it. He said Standard had not drilled along the beach bluff behind the bulkhead until the city had opened the area across the Coast highway to drilling.

Attorney Blodgett and Mayor Conrad both denied that Standard Oil had offered to withdraw its reservations as to retention of oil rights in the sale of beach lands to the city. Lawler declared the oil company had done so. The mayor and city attorney then said they had not been notified if any such withdrawals had been made. Lawler presented two photos of the beach near the bulkheads, claiming they showed a clean pleasure beach where people were at play. He charged the photos were made for official use by the city.

Attorney Blodgett peered long at the pictures. One, he declared, had been taken years ago, before the Standard beach bluff wells were drilled, and the other was a photo of an especially grouped people, probably a dozen in all. He denied the pictures were ordered officially by the city. Mayor Conrad also made denial of the city having ordered any such photos made. Lawler nevertheless maintained they were pictures to be used in official advertising ordered by the city.

Governor Rolph listened silently through nearly three hours of unorganized, haphazard arguments without attempting to allow or permit either side to present a complete picture. There was continuous heckling and interruptions of the various speakers. In a matter of fact way he said: "The facts presented by the proponents of the bill are in themselves sufficient to condemn it. Your own arguments only convince me that it would be better to let it lay just as it is."

Mayor Conrad and others of the Huntington Beach delegation took their defeat in good spirits and shook hands with the governor in parting at the close of the hearing.

Court Notes

Confirmation of a judgment obtained in the Orange county superior court in 1926 is asked in a complaint which has been filed by John Wagner against Roy Dean and C. F. Nisle. The amount sought is $5,252.33, plus interest.

Damages which it is alleged were suffered in an auto wreck are the basis of a suit which has been filed in superior court by John P. Dougherty and his wife, Julia, against Takino Fujimoto. They ask judgment of $1995, of which $1500 is for injuries to Mrs. Dougherty and the balance consequential damages suffered by her husband.

Three new divorce complaints were on file in the office of County Clerk J. M. Backs today.

John T. Wilbur charged his wife, Ruth E. Wilbur, with cruelty. Wilbur asks the custody of their child.

Habitual intemperance is the charge brought against William J. Damron in the complaint filed by Edna L. Damron. They were married in 1923 and separated in 1927.

REPORT ORANGE COUNTY HEALTH CONDITION GOOD

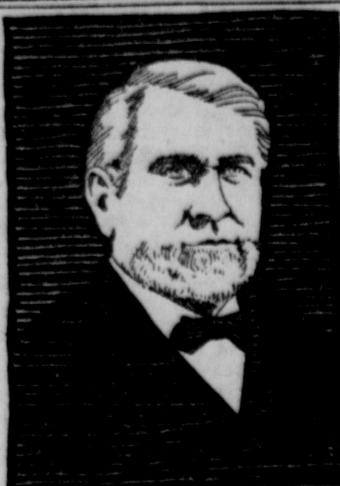

Health conditions in Orange county are exceptionally good, according to a statement issued today by Dr. K. H. Sutherland, county health officer. Following is an article written by Dr. Sutherland on the subject:

"The regular monthly report of the health conditions existing over the county, recently issued by the Orange County Health department, reveals that contagious disease incidence is considerably lower this year than last. A total of 376 cases of communicable disease was reported during May, 1931, as compared with 904 during May, 1930. The total of contagious disease cases reported for the first five months of 1931 is 2223 as compared with 2611 of 1930. "At the present time there are no epidemics existing in the county although during the latter part of May diphtheria was introduced into one of the Mexican camps in the northern part of the county, resulting in one severe case of diphtheria and 11 carriers. It is quite evident that the presence of this disease also, as well as in the other contagious diseases. Five new cases were reported during May as compared with 15 last year. During the first five months of this year 218 people have been examined for tuberculosis in 24 diagnostic clinics. One hundred and thirty-two of those were examined in county clinics and the rest were examined in clinics maintained by the Orange County Tuberculosis association. At the present time the County Health department has 89 cases of tuberculosis under its supervision and in addition 153 contacts and suspects.

"The end of May brought the close of the annual campaign to secure physical examinations for children about to enter school. Forty pre-school examination clinics were held in various districts of the county, at which 666 children about to enter school were given routine physical examinations. Among this number examined 975 physical defects were discovered and referred to the parents for correction. One hundred and fifty-six of these were diseased tonsils; 14 were defects of the heart and 47 were defects of the lungs. Three hundred and eight children were referred for medical supervision because of more or less serious physical defects, so it is apparent that these examinations were productive of good, by calling to the attention of the parents physical faults, many of which can now be corrected before permanent injury has occurred. These children will thus be ready to enter school next fall with their physical condition much improved. In addition to the pre-school examination clinics, the Department maintained its regular child health centers. These latter, together with the preschool clinics, have secured the examination of 3036 babies and preschool children since the first of the year. These well baby clinics are held for the benefit of mothers of small children as a part of the Better Health education movement which is being carried on in the better organized communities of the whole nation."

The Public Forum

Communications under this heading must be signed by the name of the writer. These communications express the opinions of the writers of them. The opinions may or may not be the opinions of The Register.

Santa Ana, June 17, 1931. Editor Register—I read with interest your editorial on Tuesday evening entitled 'The Chamber of Commerce' and I agree with you on many points brought out in that article.

I agree with you that the protest in question, against giving $8500 in city tax money to the chamber of commerce, but rather than to be an "attack" upon the chamber of commerce, but rather discussed the policy from the standpoint of city taxpayers who pay the bills.

Also, I agree with you that it is hardly fair to "deliberately head off criticism of a plan by over-awing the public with the names of prominent citizens who come out in its favor." There has been too much of that in Santa Ana, coupled with some form of persecution (economic pressure) of those who refused to be over-awed and presumed to offer criticisms.

It was a good editorial, highly laudatory of the chamber of commerce and its secretary, but somehow or other I failed to get its purpose and its meaning. I was anxious to find whether or not the Register—known as the "People's Paper"—favors the tax payers of the city in this matter or the small group represented in the chamber of commerce, but even after finishing the reading I still did not know.

Does your commendation of the chamber of commerce mean that you approve giving them $8422 of the people's tax money to spend for ribbons, buttons, badges, Chicago exhibits, etc., or were you sincere when you stated you would aid in financing the C. of C. but it should be financed by "contributions made primarily by those who are more immediately benefitted by its activities?"

The people of Orange county have come to look upon the Register somewhat as a defender of its rights and privileges, and I am sure that many others besides myself would be glad to have your position in this matter made clear, that is, if you actually have studied the matter and actually have taken an editorial stand regarding it.

Very truly yours, J. E. HALL,

"The essential effect of the Ultra Violet is the production of better tobacco and of cigarettes regarded by virtually all smokers who have tested them as milder and with a lesser tendency to cause throat irritation."

DEATH OF ANNA KORN BASIS OF DAMAGE ACTION

Death of Anna M. Korn, former employe of the Santa Ana Valley Hospital, which resulted from injuries suffered in an accident near Anaheim last May, and which has already resulted in a formal charge of manslaughter being filed by the office of District Attorney Sam L. Collins against Herbert M. Craig, driver of the car which it is alleged caused the wreck, also has resulted in a civil action against Craig and his parents in which damages of $26,095.58 are asked.

The suit, which was filed yesterday afternoon by Charles and Louise Korn, parents of the accident victim, who themselves were seriously injured in the crash, and the two sisters and three brothers, named Hilbert M. Craig, Archie and Floyd J. Craig as defendants.

The collision occurred at the intersection of Lincoln and Brookhurst avenues on May 3, and resulted, according to the complaint, from the failure of young Hilbert to make a boulevard stop. Miss Korn and her parents were returning from church services at the time, with Miss Korn at the wheel of their coupe, and all three were thrown from the car by the force of the impact when Hilbert's car struck them.

CHARGE FRAUD IN SALE OF BAKERY

Charging fraud and deceit in connection with a transaction involving the purchase of a bakery on North Glassell street in Orange, a damage action was filed today in superior court by A. O. Mecklenborg against Kenneth and Neva Claypool, asking the court to award damages amounting to $5250.

Mecklenborg alleges that he purchased the bakery, including all equipment and stocks on hand for the sum of $6000 on March 4, 1930, relying on certain statements and representations of the defendants, who were then owners of the establishment. He claims they informed him, with intent to deceive and defraud, that the business was a profitable one, worth the sum of $6000 and that it had a gross income of $175 weekly.

The plaintiff contends in the complaint that these representations were false and untrue, that the gross income is not in excess of $60 weekly, nor the stock, fixtures, lease, etc., worth any sum in excess of $750, and that as a consequence he has been damaged in the sum of $5250.

BOND ISSUE FOR HOTEL DISCUSSED

More than 30 business and professional men, representatives of practically every section of Orange county, met last night at the Santa Ana Country club as dinner guests of J. B. Utt to discuss the floating of a $250,000 bond issue for financing the Dana Point Inn, now under construction at Dana Point.

Among those who spoke were: Morris Rathbun, of the Automobile Club of Southern California; Edward Thomas, chairman of the publicity committee of the southern region, state chamber of commerce; L. C. Rauch, president of the States Publishing company; Frank Drumm, former judge of the Orange county superior court; G. A. Raymer, secretary of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce; Bruce Crandall, associate editor of the South Coast News; S. H. Woodruff, developer of Dana Point; George Reid, secretary of the Anaheim Chamber of Commerce; C. E. Utt, O. T. Stevens, Supervisor Charles Chapman, and V. D. Johnson. Alan Pederson, president of the hotel corporation, who will manage the inn when completed, was introduced.

Auto Camp Will Replace Theater

That the old Orana playhouse will be demolished and an auto camp established on the site which is owned by V. W. Sutton of Orange, was learned here yesterday. Sutton expects to begin construction work at once on six cottages and a service station with showers and laundry rooms. The cost is estimated at $5000 and the cottages are to contain two rooms, one 12x14 and the other 8x14.

It is planned to have the work completed by the middle of August and Sutton will add other units of cottages as the demand arises. He has owned the property since 1922.

PRISON SYSTEM INAUGURATED AT WHITTIER BOYS' SCHOOL BY ROLPH'S NEW SUPERVISOR

Here is the fifth of the series of articles on the Rolph spoils system in California and which is being printed daily in the Los Angeles Record and reproduced in The Register—(Editor).

Looking over the strange world into which politicians had shunted them, former Sheriff Claude S. Smith and his aide, Joseph Southey, started a program of "reform" at the Whittier state school.

According to the citizens' committee, which has been investigating the new regime, Superintendent Smith and his aide ordered the paintshop man to paint their houses, which stand on the school grounds.

Result, no one to teach painting to the boys.

The carpenter working with the boys on 150 chairs was instructed to make ornaments and articles for the Smith and Southern households.

The chair work was temporarily stopped.

Under the regime of Superintendent K. J. Scudder, the boys had sat in the dining room at individual tables for six. The new superintendent, Smith, thirsting for "reform" planned a return to the long tables of the old prison style, it is said.

Place Burglar Alarms

A sheriff's world must be a secure world and so Smith and Southern had burglar alarms put on all doors and windows in their homes! With "bad boys" all around, you never can tell!

Superintendent Smith's appointment of Owen F. Owens as head of the probation department throws considerable light in the "reform" tendencies of the new regime.

Owens lives on a small ranch near Anaheim. Last fall he was Rolph's campaign manager at Anaheim. He was formerly a professional boxer.

He is characterized by Elmer R.

SPEEDER'S DAY IN SANTA ANA COURT

Speeder's Day in the Santa Ana police court yesterday found a number of alleged violators in court, but many of them were under age and were certified to the juvenile court by Acting City Judge John Landell.

Richard White, Santa Ana, Richard Smith, Laguna, Harding Eakins, Santa Ana, all charged with speeding were too young to be tried by the city court.

Sidney Roach, Orange, charged with speeding was fined $10; Jud Hobson, Anaheim, charged with reckless driving, speeding, passing at an intersection and failure to have an operator's license, was fined $25 and his operator's license suspended for a period of 30 days; Roger McCune, charged with making unnecessary noise was fined $2; William McGreary, charged with reckless driving was given a $25 fine and his operator's license suspended for 30 days and Ernest Moehle, of 1061 West Fourth street, charged with speeding was fined $20.

When Owens made his first appearance with a boy before Judge Robert Scott of the juvenile court, he demanded that his charge be "punished." It is reported.

"I am surprised at your ignorance of modern methods," the judge is said to have told Owens.

The judge removed the boy from Owens' custody and turned him over to the county probation department.

One of Owens' early jobs at Whittier was to take a 16-year-old lad to the Norwalk state hospital for observation for mental trouble.

The boy was of slight build, weighing about 125 pounds.

Handcuffed youth Owens got out his handcuffs and straps and started to strap the boy to the car.

Other officers of the school pointed out that he would be a laughing stock with his handcuffs and straps and he took them off.

Smith and his men are still thinking in terms of the 19th century.

ROBBERS' ROOST

by ZANE GREY

INSTALLMENT 16

Little did Hays realize, as he strode back to the horses, that Jim stood there in the gloom, a clutching hand on his gun and mad lust for blood in his heart. Jim knew he meant to kill Hays. Why not now? But as before he had the sagacity and the will to resist a terrible craving.

With nerveless hands he unpacked his outfit. Then he sat down upon his bed roll, exhausted, and gazed around him. The place fascinated. An owl hooted down somewhere in the canyon, and far away a wolf bayed bloodthirstily.

Soon a crackle of fire turned Jim to see a growing light, and dark forms of men. Jim waited until he saw Hays go to the camp fire, and then he, too, joined the men.

"What kind of a roost is it, Hank? Anythin' like the Dragon Canyon?"

"No, I seen that place once. It's a cave high up—forty feet, maybe, from the canyon bed. Only one outlet to that burrow, an' that's by the same way you come. This roost has four. We could never be ketchin' in a hundred years."

"Hank, how'd the lady stand the ride?"

"She's all in."

"Gosh, no wonder. That was a job for men."

"Reckon I'll put up the little tent for my lady guest."

"Hank, how air you goin' to collect that ransom now?" inquired Lincoln.

"I dunno. Heeseman shore spoiled my plan."

ordered me to dress to ride."

"Keep your nerve," interposed Jim, with a backward glance toward the camp fire. "But I'll not deceive you. Hank Hays is capable of anything. His men are loyal. Except me, I'm with them, though I don't belong to the outfit. I could kill him any time, but I'd have to fight the rest. The odds are too great. I'd never save you that way. You must help me play for time—till opportunity offers."

"I trust you—I'll do as you say. Oh, thank you."

"You said he robbed you?" went on Jim, with another look back at camp. Hays was standing erect.

"Yes, I had four thousand pounds in American currency. The Sparrowhawk man found it—also my jewelry. Another thing which worries me now—he made me pack a bundle of clothes, my toilet articles—"

"Ahuh. But where was Herrick all this while?"

"They said they had tied him up in the living room."

"How much money did Herrick have on hand?"

"I don't know, but considerable."

"It is a good bet he robbed your brother, too. That'd make this ransom deal look fishy, even if there were nothing else."

"There! He is coming. Go—go! You are my only hope."

Without a look Jim rose to glide away along the grove. His men were sound. The darkness cloaked him. Hays' deep voice floated to him from the other direction. Circling to the left he got on higher ground, from which he saw the camp fire again. Then he sought his bed and crawled into it.

Jim realized that when Hank Hays stole this girl from her home he had broken the law of his band. He had betrayed them, he had doomed himself. No matter what loyalty they felt for Hays, the woman would change it. Her presence alone meant disruption and death.

Morning disclosed as remarkable a place as Jim had ever seen. Mocking birds, blackbirds, and meadowlarks were mingling their melodies.

Below him the little gray tent Hays had raised for his captive had been pitched against the grove of cottonwoods, which occupied a terrace. One half of the trees stood considerably higher than the other, which fact indicated rather a steep bank running through the middle of the grove. The luxuriant jungle of vines, ferns, flowers, moss, and grass on that bank was eloquent of water.

This grove was on a point that was separated from the wall on each side by a deep gully. But these gullies ended abruptly where the point spread into the oval floor of the hole. Also both gullies opened into a canyon below.

Jim saw some of the men at the camp fire, among them Hays. Beyond them rose a wall of white, gray and reddish stone. Jim was reminded of what Hays had said about outlets to their burrow. There was also, on the other side, the steep entrance down which Hays had come to get into this place.

The inclosed oval contained perhaps twenty-five acres of level sward, as grassy as any pasture. Aside from the features that made this retreat ideal for robbers, it was amazing in its fertility, in its protected isolation, and in the brilliance of its many colors.

Jim strode over to the camp fire to wash.

"How's Sparrowhawk?" asked Jim.

"Stopped bleedin'." It was Hays who answered this time. "But I gotta dig out that bullet an' I'm plumb feared I can't."

"Let it be a while. How's your prisoner?"

"Say, all you fellows askin' me that. Fact is, I don't know. She was dead to the world last night."

"Let her sleep. That was an awful ride."

"After grub we'll climb up an' look our roost over," announced Hays presently.

"It certainly is a great robbers' roost," agreed Jim, wiping his face. "If we get surprised we'll simply go out on the other side."

"Wal, we jest can't be surprised," said Hays, complacently. "One lookout with a glass can watch all the approaches."

"If I was Heeseman and had seen you, as he sure saw us, I'd find you in three days," returned Jim, deliberately.

"Wall, I'll bet you two to one that you can't even git out of here," declared Hays.

"Why, man, you just told us all how to get out."

"Down the gully, yes. But you've never seen it an' you'd shore be stuck—Wal, we'll keep watch durin' daylight."

"Fellers," Hays said at the end of the meal, "I forgot to tell you that we took a little money from Herrick. I'll make a divvy on that today."

This news was received with manifest satisfaction.

"How much, about, Hank?" asked Bridges, eagerly.

"Not much. I didn't count. Reckon a couple thousand each."

"Whew! That added to what I've got will make me flush. An' I'm gonna keep it."

"Hank, as there's no deal in sight all summer, an' mebbe not then, we can gamble, huh?"

"Gamble yourselves black in the face, provided there's no fightin'. It's good we haven't any likker."

"Boss, I forgot tell you that I bought a couple of jugs at the junction. Wal, no matter, only it 'pears we've all forgottin' things," said the leader, somewhat testily.

"Hank, when're you aimin' to collect ransom fer the girl?"

"Not while that hard-shootin' outfit is campin' on our trail."

Later Jim caught Smoky aside, digging into his pack, and approached him to whisper:

"Smoky, I wish we had time to talk. But I'll say this right from the shoulder: It's up to you and me to see no harm comes to this girl."

"Why you an' me, Jim?" returned Smoky, his penetrating eyes on Wall's.

"That's why I wish I had time to talk. But you've got to take me straight. If I wasn't here you'd do your best for her—that's my hunch. Shoot now, quick! Hays is suspicious as hell."

"Wal, yore a sharp cuss, Jim," returned Smoky, going back to his pack. "I'm with you. One of us has always got to be heah in camp, day an' night. Do you savvy?"

"Yes—Thanks, Smoky. Somehow I'd have sworn by you," replied Jim, hurriedly, and retraced his steps to the fire.

"We growers have 55,000 salesmen who ask no pay!"

"YOU'D SAY that any organization which could divert $65,000,000 a year of the public's money to its products through a staff of salaryless salesmen was doing a pretty thorough and intelligent job of marketing. And that's just what the Exchange is doing—with its big Sunkist Extractor. It's one of the reasons why we Exchange members average the highest returns for our crops."

"A dozen years ago you'd have been put down as a crank if you'd asked for fresh orange juice. But now it's a national habit—created when the Exchange found a machine to make fruit drinks and popularized them through advertising."

"Soda fountains, hotels, restaurants and hospitals have found it profitable to buy 55,000 Sunkist Extractors. And they use over 3,000,000 boxes of oranges and lemons a year—enough for two-thirds of a billion ten-cent drinks."

"The important thing is that these mechanical salesmen do their best work when we need them most. They not only bring a sizable share of the country's beverage budget to oranges and lemons—they helped solve the problem of small fruit. And naturally, the owner of a Sunkist Extractor favors fruit bearing the same name, so we members profit accordingly."

The facts are that the Sunkist Senior is only one of three extractors sponsored by the Exchange. Scarcely three years on the market, the Sunkist Junior Extractor has already been adopted by 70,000 homes where, figures prove, it is increasing the use of citrus fruits. For the great mass of homes there is the Sunkist Glass Reamer. Over a million have been manufactured and sold at a low price. By perfecting these extractors and promoting their sale and use the Exchange has expanded the market for citrus fruits and furthered the prosperity of its members.

The manager of your nearest District Exchange or Exchange Association will be glad to answer your questions and acquaint you with the many reasons why over 75% of California and Arizona citrus growers find Exchange membership profitable. WHAT THE EXCHANGE IS: The California Fruit Growers Exchange is a non-profit organization of more than 12,500 citrus fruit growers, producing over 75% of the California and Arizona citrus crop, operated by and for them on a cooperative basis. Its object is to develop the national and international market for its Oranges, Lemons and Grapefruit, and to provide a marketing organization that will sell the fruit of its members most advantageously and at least expense. Receipts from sales, less only actual cost of operation, are returned to growers. Applications are received through all the Exchange's 214 local packing associations, 23 District Exchanges, or at the central office in Los Angeles.

Radio News

POPULAR RADIO ARTISTS TO BE HEARD TONIGHT

One of the headlines on the KREG program for tonight will be a concert program to be offered by Josephine Durgan, Ruth Bower and Isabel Durgan. This trio has long been a favorite with radio audiences, and the weekly presentations are hailed with pleasure. The concert will start at 9 p. m. and continue for 30 minutes and will follow the Melodians in a 45-minute program scheduled to start at 8:15 p. m.

Christine Lambert, pianist, is scheduled for a 30-minute program starting at 8:15 and will offer one of her usual popular entertainments. The Sieberling singers, on the air from 7:30 p. m. until 7:45, will be another welcome feature. Johnny Maxwell, popular entertainer, will broadcast from 9:30 until 9:45 p. m., when the Southern Trio will go on the air for 45 minutes.

The dinner program from 5:30 until 7:30 p. m. will include the Texas Cowboys, regular news, radio guide and Shoppers' Guide features, the 4-H club program and a brief studio program of popular recordings.

CHILDREN'S HOUR TIME TO CHANGE

Starting Monday the KREG children's hour directed by Lorene Croddy will be broadcast each Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 11:30 a. m. to noon, instead of from 5:30 to 6 p. m. as has been the schedule in the past. Tomorrow's program, however, will be on the air at 5:30 p. m.

The program for tomorrow, as announced today by Miss Croddy, will present Leo and Lloyd Robbins, both playing the violin and piano; Audrey Benjamin and Anna Sutherland, singing solos and duets; Glen Latton, playing the musical saw and steel guitar, and David Hunter, giving piano readings.

VIVIAN ROGERS

One of the most popular KREG entertainers on the children's hour directed by Lorene Croddy, Vivian Rogers, shown here, will leave in the near future for Kearney, Neb., where she will attend the State Teachers' college.

RADIO ARTIST PLANS STUDY IN NEBRASKA

Vivian Rogers, whose story telling on the KREG children's hour has been one of the most popular features on this program, will leave in the near future for Kearney, Neb., where she will attend the State Teachers' college. Her last appearance over KREG, for the present at least, was last night.

In the Nebraska college Miss Rogers will study dramatics. Her contributions to the KREG programs have shown that she has marked ability. Lorene Croddy, director of the program, has received many letters telling of the pleasure which Miss Rogers' stories have brought to young and old alike.

She graduated this year from the Santa Ana High school and in addition to her studies there has been a pupil of Ethel Phillips, secretary of the National Poetry guild and a teacher in Cumnock hall, Los Angeles. She also has studied under Holly Lash Visel and Dorothy Jean Blakley.

In 1929 Miss Rogers was assistant literary editor of the Ariel, high school year book, and this year wrote and delivered the senior class poem.

She already has given a recital of her own poetry and among her radio appearances in addition to those on KREG have been appearances at KHJ and KMTR, Los Angeles.

SPROWL RESIGNS AS PROGRAM MANAGER

Bob Sprowl, KREG program director, today announced his resignation, which will take effect next Monday. Sprowl, who came here from Cleveland, O., has been in charge of the radio programs for approximately five months.

Although he is well known in the Southern California radio world and also has appeared in vaudeville on the stage of the Fox West Coast theater here, Sprowl has not announced definite plans for the future except that he will continue to make Santa Ana his headquarters. An act in which he has won favor here and over other radio stations and in vaudeville, is a double piano feature in which he has appeared with Duncan Harnois, KREG pianist.

Before coming to Santa Ana, Sprowl was connected with radio stations in Cleveland and Columbus, O., where he created and directed a weekly act and also wrote continuity. These programs were carried by national broadcasting networks.

The present staff of the station will handle the program work.

TO PLAY MUSIC BY BEETHOVEN, CHOPIN

"Sonata Eroica A Flat Major," op. 25, Beethoven, and "Impromptu F Sharp Major," Chopin, will be played tomorrow by Welma Sauvageol, pianist, when she appears on the KREG program at 10 a. m.

"Sonata Eroica" has four movements, the first of which has an andante theme with variations. The second is a scherzo, the literal meaning of which is a jest, and is one of Beethoven's characteristic bits of humor. The third movement is one of the greatest funeral marches ever written for the piano and ranks among Beethoven's best creations. The fourth movement is a stirring climax, a vigorous, brilliant rondo and an effective climax to the preceding funeral march.

The Chopin number is to be played by special request.

Milton Young To Talk Over Radio

Milton K. Young, Democratic candidate for governor of California at the last general election, will be heard in an address over KFWB tonight. The speech will go on the air at 7 p. m.

Young is expected to outline business conditions in his talk.

How Flood Control Has Progressed

In the four years since the great Mississippi valley disasters, 92 million dollars have been spent, over 50 million yards of dirt have been moved and New Orleans is now safe . . . but cuckoo prevention ideas have flooded the offices of the army engineers in charge

By FLORA G. ORR

THE U. S. Army Engineering Corps has some great big wastebaskets. It has to have them to receive the tons of letters which people write about Bringing Up the Old Father of Waters so that he'll learn to behave himself in company. Of course, the letters have rather fallen off during the past few months, because almost all American rivers are at low water these days and people are talking about drought control and rainmakers rather than flood control. But just let conditions change—and they will change—and the letters on flood control will start flooding into the War Department again.

Many of the plans, ideas and suggestions to harness the old Mississippi and keep him in his own territory are written to the President rather than to the War Department. But of course, the President never sees the letters.

The mail clerks in the White House go over the mail, sort it, check it, stamp it with rubber stamps and refer all flood control missives to the army engineers for reply. Sometimes detailed drawings and specifications come from technical men with considerable engineering knowledge and experience.

Occasionally one of these inventors will talk to his senator or representative and get the congressman so enthusiastic that a hearing is demanded before a congressional committee. The congressman in question may introduce bills embodying the scheme in whole or in part.

Colonel Ernest Graves, member of the Mississippi River Commission, says he tries to forget some of the wildest ideas which have been advanced, but as he recalls it they fall into four or five general classes.

FIRST, there are the canal builders. These lads wish to run canals from various tributaries of the Mississippi to lower rivers which can carry off excess water into the Gulf of Mexico. One such scheme embodies a canal from the Tennessee River to the Warrior River. (Mountains are no impediments to such projects on paper.)

Another proposed canal would be from the Arkansas to the Red River and from the Red River to the Gulf. Still a third envisions the Ohio River's excess water being diverted down into the Tennessee.

"Most of these canals, even if they could be built, could not carry off enough water to do much good in a flood control program," declares Colonel Graves.

"If excess water from the Ohio and Tennessee could be drawn off that would take care of an amount of water large enough to count, but, man alive, such a canal would have to be as large as the three rivers combined, and we haven't enough people in the United States to dig it. It would take care of the unemployment problem all right, if we could afford it."

No idea is too visionary for the geniuses who write in suggestions for flood control to the President and the War Department. . . . Artist Don Woolton has sketched here a few of the proposals that have actually been made by inventive Americans.

Schemes of the second class are highly idealistic. These contemplate practically redigging the Mississippi channel and putting it in another place, thus abandoning the river's natural course completely.

The basic general idea is to make a large, straight channel, more or less parallel with and hard by the Mississippi as it now runs. The channel would be three or four times as wide as the river itself and deep enough for ocean steamers to sail up and down its course.

In the basement of the Senate office building is a model of the Riker Mississippi Spillway Project, which follows the above plan. Senator Frazier of North Dakota has two or three times introduced bills, for amendment of the present flood control law, with the thought that the Riker plan could be adopted.

Literature put out by Carroll Livingston Riker, author of the plan, declares that his spillway plan would cost only $1,500,000,000 to complete; that the President of the United States could control the amount of water flowing down the river and the velocity of the water flowing down the spillway by pressing electric buttons in the White House; that there would be no bank erosion, caving banks, or bar formations; that, by means of dams, power could be developed which would mean a net profit of $10,000,000,000 in five years.

But Colonel Graves sees it differently. "To complete such a canalization and spillway project might cost any sum—say $10,000,000,000," he says. "Furthermore, the channel would not be kept clear for deep ocean steamers or anything like them. In the Mississippi itself we can't keep our channels clear without continual dredging. It would be the same story in a reconstructed river of this kind."

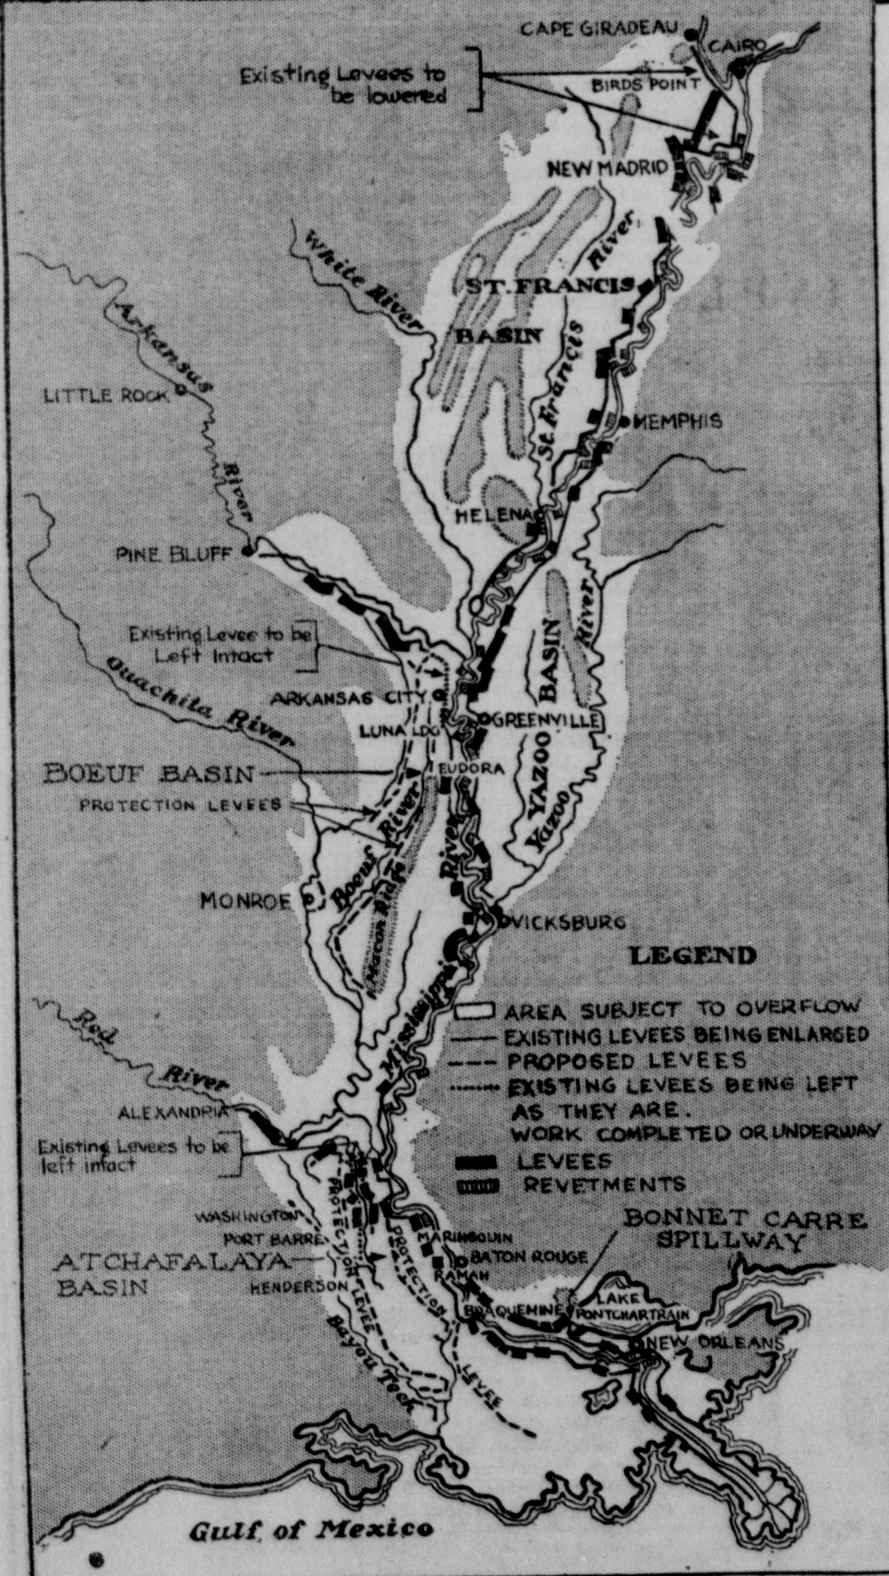

Even on the present program, twice as much dirt is being moved as was excavated for the Panama Canal.

STILL a third class of schemes for deepening the natural river channel so that it could take care of all its own excess water is to equip boats with plows and harrows and keep the bottom stirred up so that the water can carry off the silt. The only trouble with these inventions is that the flow of water doesn't seem to co-operate. It just doesn't carry off the mud the way it should do.

One man wrote in details for a pipe line to run from the Missouri to the Gulf, through which excess water could be pumped out. Colonel Graves estimated that a steel pipe 10 feet thick and hundreds of feet in diameter might be needed to withstand the pressure and power required for this work. He grew faint when he contemplated the amount of steel which would be needed.

"Ideas for power dams are always mixed up with channel schemes," says Colonel Graves. "but the inventors seem to forget that if they're going to retain the water for power, the reservoirs will not be empty for holding excess water. With some exceptions power sites are mostly up in the mountains and those down below are not economically practical at this time."

"A dam has to have a full reservoir behind it to make power, and if it is full, it will overflow when floods come. The use of dams for flood control is antagonistic to their use for power."

How the flood control scheme really lines up . . . a map showing what is being done in the Mississippi basin to prevent disastrous floods.

THE most fantastic of the ideas which people have put on paper and sent to the President or the Secretary of War are probably the following:

1. When there is a great deal of rainfall, let everybody along the Mississippi tie sponges in the branches of the trees. This will keep the water from running into the ground and thence into the rivers.
2. In times of heavy rains, everybody should set out every tub, barrel, basin, or other container which is available so as to catch as much of the water as possible.
3. Freeze the river into a glacier. Ice boats can then be used instead of water carriers, and when the river rises it will do no damage.
4. Install vaporizers and when there is too much water, vaporize it and send it off as steam.

5. Plow up the levees and let the water run over the land as it will. The river will then be bigger and broader, but what of it? "To the genius" who wrote in that last suggestion," says Colonel Graves, "we wrote a reply, telling him we were fearful that too many people throughout the country would disagree with his solution of the Mississippi problem to make it practicable."

Some more tenable ideas are the development of contour plowing to prevent soil erosion, whereby water running into the soil would be retained in the ground; reforestation, which many government scientists believe would really do a great deal towards preventing floods; and the building of reservoirs to hold excess water.

Most of these suggestions, however, are not entirely economically practicable at this time, Colonel Graves insists. He says that history shows there were floods even when the land along the rivers was heavily forested. War Department engineers are studying the reservoir system, and think that some reservoirs in certain streams which seem to present natural reservoir sites may at a later date be developed as a part of the flood control plan.

AMIDST all this welter of advice, just what is being done by the War Department in the matter of flood control? The Jadwin flood control bill passed three years ago, and $325,000,000 was authorized to be spent for dikes, dams, levees, and spillways along the river.

About $127,000,000 of this amount has actually been appropriated by Congress, and of this sum, some $92,000,000 has been spent or tied up in contracts, while the remaining $35,000,000 will soon be allocated.

Along a good part of the river levees have been raised and strengthened; a masonry type controlled spillway at Bonnet Carre, about 20 miles above New Orleans, is almost completed for the protection of the Crescent City.

Also included in the flood control program are channel improvement works, construction of revetments for bank protection. Because engineers decided it would be best to compromise with the Father of Waters rather than oppose his desires all along the line, the plan does not preclude certain overflowing of lands which have always been inundated in flood time.

From Birds Point, Ill., to New Madrid, Mo., a floodway permitting the escape of excess flood waters is about completed. In the Atchafalaya and Boeuf Basins, where overflows have occurred during every great flood, the plan contemplates protection levees.

The Bonnet Carre spillway, which Colonel Graves thinks will forever protect New Orleans by diverting excess water into Lake Ponchartrain, will be finished by next spring in time to handle the seasonal high water.

Fifty-six Orange county Boy Scouts who arrived in Camp Rokili Monday for a week's outing crammed full of hikes, games, swimming, horseback riding, nature study and eats are enjoying every minute of their vacation, according to reports received here today.

Neumode Hosiery Store
402 N. Main Street

The camp is situated at Barton Flats in the heart of the San Bernardino mountains. This year many improvements have been added to the camp for the comfort of the boys. These include the renovation of the swimming pool, cabins and kitchen, and a new sprinkling system for the parade grounds. A hot-water shower also has been installed so the Scouts can take hot showers when desired.

This year's cook, Mrs. Barnes, is declared to be the "best ever" by the boys. The adult staff is the most complete in the history of the camp. Harrison White, county Scout executive, who is the camp director, has had 15 years' experience in directing Boy Scout camps. He is ably assisted by Lloyd Stearns, county Scout field executive, and Ray Duns, head of the mathematics department of the Huntington Beach high school. Duns and Sidney Allen have charge of activities. Carl Bower, an eagle Scout, who has had several years' experience in Rokili, is in charge of all hikes. SHERIFF, JAIL GIVEN PRAISE BY INSPECTOR

Praise for the sheriff's office and particularly the jail for service given government agents in the handling of illegal entry cases, was received in a letter today by Logan Jackson from Austin Spurlock, immigrant inspector, who has been working in Orange county until recently.

The letter in full, is as follows: "Mr. Logan Jackson, Sheriff Orange County, Santa Ana, California. "My Dear Mr. Jackson: "As I did not get to see you after receiving instructions to leave your county, will take this opportunity to thank you and your force of officers for the assistance given me during the two months that I was making your office my headquarters. Had it not been for the co-operation given me by your force, I could not have so successfully carried on the work I did in Orange county. Your entire force co-operated with me at all times and I extend my personal appreciation for same and also in behalf of the immigration service.

"I am especially thankful for the help given me by Mr. Lacy and his jailers, who I caused no small amount of extra work, to which they always responded with fine spirit and co-operation. "You are to be commended for having such a splendid bunch of officers and I hope again to have the pleasure of working with them. Supervisor William F. Watkins of Washington, under whose direction I was working, and District Director Walter E. Carr of Los Angeles, and Inspector in Charge Dan S. Kuykendall, of San Diego, offices have been advised of the co-operation extended by your office.

"Yours truly, (Signed) "Austin Spurlock, "Immigrant Inspector."

Deputy Sheriff's Dean and McKelvy reported that when they raided the place, they found a 60-gallon vat of mash, and a half gallon of liquor, together with 15 bottles of beer in the house.

Drum Corps Here Planning Surprise

A surprise is in store for residents of Santa Ana and Orange county, it was announced today by William Iverson, business manager of the American Legion drum corps, the nature of which will be revealed in a special broadcast from KNX next Friday, commencing at 8 p. m. He indicated that city officials would be "implicated."

Jack Pontius, of Maywood, arrested here several days ago on a speeding charge, was fined $10 in police court Tuesday.

Charged with non-support of a minor child, Dave Lowen, Santa Ana, was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Kenneth Morrison yesterday. His examination will be held on June 23, at 9 a. m. before a jury.

The case of E. S. Olds, Santa Ana, charged with grand theft, in connection with the alleged stealing and wrecking of a car which was owned by former Mayor F. L. Purinton, on June 9, was continued in Justice Kenneth Morrison's court yesterday until June 24, at 9 a. m. at the request of the defendant.

S. A. Vaneman, arrested in Laredo, Tex., several days ago by the sheriff there for Orange county officials, was arraigned in Justice Kenneth Morrison's court yesterday. Bail of $1500 was demanded which the defendant did not make and his hearing was set for June 30 at 9 a. m. Vaneman was reported arrested after he had been deported from Mexico, where he had been since he is asserted to have passed a fictitious check here in September 1930, for $25 to Perry B. LaPiere, Santa Ana, who is the complaining witness. He was returned from Texas Monday.

INSURANCE IS DISCUSSED BY BOOSTER BODY

First steps for the greater protection of local business were taken yesterday by directors of Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce, who considered creation of a new committee to be known as the insurance committee of the organization. The national chamber, the organization in Los Angeles and in several other cities have committees of similar nature and definite action on appointment of a local group will be delayed until additional information can be received from these organizations.

The matter of creating a life insurance committee within the local organization was brought up by Guy Gilbert, representing the Orange County Life Underwriters association. Gilbert explained the functions of this prospective committee as purely protective in the matter of stabilizing the business by protecting policy holders from proposals to cancel policies in old reliable companies in favor of policies in groups that are operating without the proper financial background and the prevention of fraudulent statements by agents through dissemination of insurance statistics and data to the general public.

The directors indicated that they favored the proposal but declined to act until they had further information on methods of procedure. In the discussion that followed Gilbert's request Directors W. C. Jerome said that he believed that it was the chamber of commerce's duty to the community to offer every protection possible to local business interests through the erection of barriers to prevent entry of financially and ethically irresponsible competition from outside the county.

ONTARIO PAGEANT TO START JUNE 25

Emphasizing the importance being attached to the second biennial presentation of "The First Californians" at Chaffey bowl, Euclid avenue and Fourth street, Ontario, June 25 and 26, from 8 to 10:30 p. m., is the announcement that John Steven McGroarty and Miss Peggy Hamilton, recently proclaimed King and Queen of Olympia, have consented to preside over the festivities attendant on the production.

The program is to open at 2:30 p. m., June 25, with a colorful fiesta on Euclid avenue in Ontario's business district. Over this McGroarty and Miss Hamilton will act as official host and hostess. Miss Hamilton, internationally-known arbiter of fashion, also will appear in the role of the bride at the great final wedding scene of the pageant, laid at the old Rancho Santa Ana del Chino.

Another feature of the festivities is to be Ontario's all-states fiesta picnic. The pageant, to be given at the open-air theater on the evenings of both June 25 and 26, is rich in the early history and legendary lore of Southern California. S. Earle Blackstone, widely-known composer-director, has charge of the musical end and George Dunham of Laguna Beach is dramatic director. Chief Yowlachie, American Indian vocalist, is again slated for the role of the Cucamonga Indian medicine man. Tickets may be secured at the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce.

DAYS OF CIVIL WAR RECALLED AT GATHERING

ORANGE, June 18.—Perhaps no more interesting meeting has been held by members of the Woman's Relief Corps than that of yesterday, when Flag Day was observed and a delectable covered dish luncheon was served at noon in the Smith and Grote hall.

The fact that the meeting was held on the observance of the day when the first American flag was fashioned by Betsy Ross, made the occasion a matter of interest to the two veterans of the Civil War, John McKibbin and George Washington Hall, recalled a number of incidents of the great struggle in which they served as young men.

Mr. McKibbin and Mr. Hall are the only two members of the nine who are left in the Gordon Granger post, who attend meetings of the organization regularly. One of the members, Henry Reel, who left here a few months ago but who is still a member of the post, 99 years of age. Mr. Hall was born on February 22 and his grandfather served under Washington in the war of the Revolution. Mr. McKibbin's wife will observe her 84th birthday on another patriotic holiday, July 4.

Mr. Hall was in 18 of the battles of the Civil War and Mr. McKibbin was in a like number. The latter was in the battle of the "Bloody Angle," an extension of the battle of the Wilderness, near Gettysburg, Pa., where McKibbin was fought with the dead four days around him. Mr. McKibbin was in the Lincoln hospital at Washington and was often visited by Lincoln and his wife, the vet. states. While in the hospital he was attended by Dr. Harris, a member of the Kane expedition to the North pole in 1850.

Mrs. Julia H. Miller, a member of the corps is the daughter of T. Hereford, who was one of

HEALTH CAMP KIDDIES FIND OUT WHY SPINACH IS GOOD FOOD FOR 'HOLLOW PLACE'

Editor's Note: The following article is one of a series published each week in The Register, telling what is going on at the children's health camp in the Santiago canyon maintained by the Orange County Tuberculosis and Health association. Previous articles have been written by Arlin Perkins, who now is taking a much needed vacation.

By ROBERT GALE

When school was dismissed, it left a hollow place in the camp routine. This hollow place is being filled, in part at least, with a hygiene class, conducted from 8:30 to 9:30 a. m. by Miss Helen Polmgren, public health camp nurse.

But the class serves another normal condition. So we are glad that when Fay and Charles Bowles went home the other day to Portland, Oregon, they were able to take with them their diplomas. Fay and Charles expect to be back to camp to attend school next fall.

You can't keep a good man down; neither can you keep these two away from a good camp, even when they have to come from far away Portland.

Patsy Welch, another of our graduates, wrote a nice letter to Bonnie Lee Martin. And Patsy said that when she was taking diplomas are given only to those who have built up their body to habit jumped up, thinking that rest period was over.

It is said that nine-tenths of life is habit. We have the health habit, so we are all right.

"Bubbs" (Robert) Glover, the Kiwanis five year old has turned "Early American." In other words, he has donned an Indian suit and for the last week has been a red-skin. (Note: The red skin was furnished by those sun rays found only at the Orange County Health Camp.)

His brother, Francis, is a bold and dashing pirate of the high seas, with red head and bright scarlet sash.

Last Friday we had a croquet tournament played by six of the larger boys in camp. Everything went fine until those playing complained that the radio announcer (all good tournaments have one or two) was making unnecessary noise in the attempt to inform those who were concerned "who was leading in the game." Then it at once became necessary for radio station O. C. H. C. to "sign off."

Miles Paine, one of the star players, was leading, but was called off the field by his mother who came to visit him at that time. This gave Philip Baker the lead and he came in with a close second.

We hope to have a contest between the girls and boys, and then there will be real action.

Saturday afternoon we all went over to Irvine Park. One of the first things we did was to go in the Orange County Exhibition Building. In there we saw some fruit and vegetables. An argument followed as to whether they were real or just wax. Some said they were real with wax on the outside. The question is still unanswered, but I don't think that if you were to eat one of those large red apples or one of those extra large carrots you would get as much nourishment from it as you do from the fresh fruit and vegetables we have here.

There was also some discussion as to the realness of that cannon by the side of the lake. Some one still insists that it is a "fake." Can any one tell us?

After viewing the cannon for awhile, we went to the play ground where the swings, slides, merry-go-rounds, teeters, etc., were enjoyed. We arrived home just in time for flag-drill and a nice rest period and then some good vegetable soup for supper. No, the vegetables used were not the ones over at the park—they were fresh.

We children certainly appreciate Irvine Park being so near our Health Camp. We notice lots of other people appreciate it too.

Our weight survey for the week shows a splendid gain for nearly every one.

There are only 24 children left in Camp and we wish the new children would hurry up and come, so we can get our summer program going.

"Mother Meagher" says there are 26 children on the waiting list who cannot come until more money is found for their support. We are already carrying 12 children who cannot pay the cost. Some of the children's fathers and mothers have tuberculosis. Won't some kind friends please help get these children into the Health Camp and give them a chance?

SUNDAY, June 14.—Naomi just left camp. She didn't know whether she wanted to go or not. At noon we found her in the dormitory crying. We asked her what was the matter but she wouldn't tell us then, but later we found out that she was crying because she didn't want to leave any of us (she wanted to take us with her). After the rest period when her father and mother came to take her home she started crying again. Her mother asked her if she didn't want to go home. Naomi said "yes" but kept on crying. She went over to the bathhouse to pack up her clothes. Oh boy! what a bunch. She had just brought the things she needed when she came, but her father and mother sent her lots of things. So when she was ready to go she had about three times as many things. When she came to saying good-byes her eyes were swimming with tears, but like the good sport she is she laughed until they disappeared. The last we saw of her was the car driving out with her waving. We will see her at the Booster club meeting in Anaheim park on June 26, so cheer up beloved Naomi until then.

MAYOR WELCOMES SHARPLES' GANG

A letter of welcome and appreciation of their programs from Mayor John Knox of Santa Ana has been received by Bill Sharples, radio entertainer, who with his group of 18 artists and assistants is to appear in the high school auditorium next Friday night under auspices of the Christian Home Builders' class of the First Christian Bible school.

In his letter to Sharples Mayor Knox stated that the appearance of the Arabian horse which was given to Sharples by W. K. Kellogg will be a treat to many of the younger generation.

"It is the high type of clean entertainment which you and your organization seem to sponsor that I am sure the citizens of Santa Ana are interested in," Mayor Knox wrote, "and I bespeak for you and your group of entertainers the highest possible success on your appearance in this city and assure you that it will be my pleasure to do such things in a personal way to further your success, as I am much interested and know that your coming amongst us will be highly appreciated."

LETTER CLAIMS CONCEPTION OF GANDHI WRONG

Complexities of the present political situation in India and intimations that the majority of the people of that country is not in sympathy with the Gandhi program of "civil disobedience," were contained in a recent letter received here from Miss Agnes Dunn, former public health nurse in Garden Grove and Placentia who is doing similar work in India at present. The letter was received by Miss Ithel Durgan, director of public health nurses in Orange county.

Intellectual men and true patriots do not necessarily stand with Mahatma Gandhi in his "untimely and dangerous struggle for independence," according to the letter, and to prove this, Matarajan, writing for the "Indian Social Reformer" for last March, is quoted as saying, "We dissent from the goal of independence, and approve of working out our destiny within the commonwealth of British nations."

Widespread misinformation, revolutionary propaganda and much prejudice are blamed in the letter for the general opinion that recent riots and unrest in India represented dissatisfaction with existing conditions and popular demand for Gandhi's program of civil disobedience. These recent disturbances represent sporadic anarchy and not public uprisings, the writer declared.

She said, "Many misconceptions are entertained regarding Mahatma Gandhi, and none more vainly than that he is India's leader into a great new era of brotherhood and democracy. One can credit the Mahatma with many things without entering into such a wholly unwarranted claim in his behalf."

In another part of her letter Miss Dunn stated: "Few people seem to know that 39 per cent of India's territory is under the rule of independent Indian princes with a total of 72,000,000 subjects. The fact that these native states already have self government and enjoy the protection of Great Britain, makes it quite clear why they do not stand for the independence program of Mahatma Gandhi. A knowledge of the 'Chamber of Princes,' and its direct dealing with the British-Indian government in all matters pertaining to these states, makes it easier to realize that these millions are related to the so-called 'National Congress,' or to Mahatma Gandhi's desperate program."

Later the writer declared, "I might add that there are about 70,000,000 Mohammedans, most of whom are not in sympathy with Gandhi because they know that if India should get home rule that the Hindus would be in the majority and their interests neglected, and there are millions of outcasts who are protesting against Gandhi's movement because they know that their lot is better now than it has ever been before or ever would be if the Hindus were to rule."

"These are just a few of the complexities in the case. Yes, I should add that Christians—both Indian and Anglo-Indian—are against home rule."

AUXILIARY SELLS THEATER TICKETS

Members of the Santa Ana American Legion auxiliary glee club are selling tickets this week to the Fox Broadway theater for the purpose of making money to defray expenses of the organization to the Long Beach state convention next month.

Every ticket bought from an auxiliary girl on the street or elsewhere will entitle the holder to a seat at the theater any day this week, with the exception of Saturday.

At present the show is "The Maltese Falcon," one of the best mystery shows seen here in recent months. The auxiliary gets a percentage on each ticket sold.

Lions To Install New Officers At Annual Dinner

RAY ADKINSON IS TO BECOME NEW PRESIDENT

Accomplishments of the Santa Ana Lions club during the past year will be recounted this evening, when the club members, their wives, and guests hold their annual installation party for new officers at the Pacific Coast club at Long Beach.

President Homer C. Chaney, who who this evening surrenders the gavel of the club to Ray Adkinson, newly elected president, has prepared the following statement of club activities for the consideration of members upon his retirement as active head of the club:

"The past year has been one of which the Santa Ana Lions club should be justly proud. Starting with a membership of 50 last July, 19 new Lions have been initiated and two transfers were accepted of membership from other clubs. Five of the older members have dropped out through circumstances over which they had no control, making a net gain of 16 members during the year.

"The club has supported one or more boys at the Children's Health camp and if nothing else were accomplished by a service club, the saving of a young lad from the ravages of tuberculosis is worth the existence of that club.

"During the first week of December the Santa Ana Lions sponsored 'Business Confidence Week'. The joint service club luncheon which was served by the Legion Auxiliary was enjoyed by over 300 men and women of Santa Ana. There is not a doubt but that an immeasurable benefit accrued to the merchants of Santa Ana, and the Lions club received many hearty congratulations on its courage in sponsoring such a movement.

"The club has taken an active lead in district affairs of Lionism. The president of the Orange county council of Lions clubs was a member of the Santa Ana den, Sunny Sundquist. The chairman of the Southern California group was Santa Ana Lion, Dr. Elliott Rowland.

"The greatest single honor to come to the Santa Ana club was the election of Elliott Rowland as district governor of district four, Lions International, the largest district in Lionism. It was through the united support of the local club that 'Doc' was elected. The Santa Ana den won the international contest last fall for attendance. Several other clubs were perfect in attendance but the prize was awarded Santa Ana because of the largest percentage increase in new memberships during the contest.

"The club has recognized its responsibility to the boys and girls of Santa Ana, although limited in the actual work that can be done. Yet it has recognized the young people of the high school and each year a suitable recognition will be given the high school boy or girl who is outstanding by virtue of not only good scholarship, clean living, and school activities, but who also has been exceptional along some line of endeavor. This year, Al Rebohn was awarded this coveted prize.

"Many other lesser activities have been carried on by the club all in the nature of service. The weekly programs were all of a high educational value.

"But the finest and best part of the year's work has been the continued good fellowship of the individual members, which is priceless."

PERISCOPING PROSPERITY FOR SANTA ANA BUSINESS

Business has passed through its worst period of depression, according to J. S. Hill, of Hill and Carden, and is now going through the period of rehabilitation, basing this movement on the new value of the dollar. Prosperity's return, however, will not arrive with a rush but will be a gradual return to normal from the inflated values experienced in the years following the war.

Mr. Hill said:

"The return to prosperity or rather the establishment of a firm level of good business conditions will necessarily be slow as it entails a gradual readjustment of labor based upon the new value of the dollar. The dollar today has a greater purchasing power than it did a year or so ago and as industry comes to realize this and makes the necessary readjustments prosperity will return.

"Prosperous business depends upon volume of sales and as prices control volume it is necessary for the merchant to increase his volume. There are three factors that must be considered in increasing sales volume. They are quality, price and advertising.

"People are hungry to buy quality merchandise today if it is offered them at a price they can afford to pay but the highest quality and lowest price possible will mean nothing if the public is not informed and the only way the merchant can carry his message to the prospective customer is through advertising.

"We have proven that here in our store. In the month of February we sold more garments than in any month since entering business here 21 years ago. Through advantageous arrangement we can go into the market and purchase quality merchandise at prices that enable us to offer quality goods at a price the people can afford to pay and to tell them of this we have increased our advertising budget and are reaping the benefit.

"Of course the manufacturers are experiencing the same problems that face the retailer. They must find an outlet for their products and are willing to co-operate with the retailer to the degree of making it possible to offer goods of high quality at an attractive price and still leave the retailer a fair profit.

"I have no fear for the future. Business can stabilize itself and is in the process of doing so at present, but this stabilization will be a gradual thing and may require months, but conditions are considerably improved over conditions of a few months ago and will show greater improvement in the next few weeks I believe."

RABBIT MEN NAME ELMER PRESIDENT

E. H. Elmer was elected president of the Orange County Rabbit Breeder's association at the regular meeting held Tuesday night in the farm advisor's office in the court house annex. F. C. Davis was elected vice president, Mrs. C. E. Dowles was re-elected secretary and A. F. Barlow was elected to the directorate board.

Following a business session, members of the program committee reported that definite plans for speakers and interesting programs have been arranged for future meetings. Refreshments were served at the conclusion of the business session.

Harold E. Wahlberg, farm advisor, made a report on the activities of the committees in charge of arrangements for the Western States Farm Bureau conference to be held here early in July.

Chamber Asked To Endorse Plan for Big Relief Fund

Suggestion that the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce, through its directors support the proposal to call an extra session of congress for the purpose of creating a fund of $5,000,000 for the relief of the unemployed was referred to the legislative committee of the chamber yesterday at a meeting of the directorate.

No action was taken on the request of the Kern county Chamber of Commerce that the local group adopt a resolution condemning the recent action of the Los Angeles city council in its passage of an ordinance requiring dairymen selling their products in that area to pay an annual license of $5.

A condemnatory resolution relative to this legislation has been adopted in Kern county but directors of the Santa Ana organization declined to follow that procedure and suggested that the matter be referred to the Southern California Economic Council.

The government of Argentina has prohibited the exportation of scrap metals, in an effort to establish an iron and steel manufacturing industry.

$15,000 LEVY AUTHORIZED BY LAGUNA BOARD

LAGUNA BEACH, June 18.—A resolution was adopted at the regular meeting of the Laguna Beach city council last night instructing the county to make an assessment to raise $15,000 for redemption of bonds for accrued interest and for maintenance of the sewer district for 1931-32.

Herman C. Mapes was employed to spread an assessment on the Ocean avenue-El Paseo improvement district. A resolution was adopted abandoning a portion of Cliff Drive that lies within the boundaries of Heister park where the bowling green is now being constructed. Park Place, which lies along the north side of the park will be used as a continuation of Cliff Drive and will be included in an improvement district now under proceedings.

Repairs were ordered for the stairway at Euterpe street and the board walk at the foot of Laguna street after estimates of the repair work had been submitted by Frank Gowan, city engineer. The driveway over the board walk at the foot of Broadway was ordered strengthened for the use of wagons used in cleaning the beach.

City Attorney Milburn Harvey announced that the courts had denied a rehearing of a suit of Stillman Jamison seeking to force the abandonment of a street in Arch Beach where he is building a $10,000 home.

Millard R. Hooper, of Long Beach was denied a permit to open a pool hall in the city with a card table concession.

An American flag was ordered placed in front of the city hall on Ocean avenue and the American Legion will be asked to place it.

Councilman George Wilson was elected mayor pro tem to act in the absence of Mayor J. E. Bishop. Night baseball was assured for Laguna Beach when the members of the council voted $100 as an addition to the fund of $300 donated by school boys for lighting the playgrounds at the school house.

City Attorney Harvey was ordered by the council to learn the identity of the two members of an orchestra playing in a dance hall here who took a joy ride in the city lifeboat which was tipped over in the surf in a heavy sea and which was damaged to the extent of $27. The councilmen paid the bill presented by Refugio Coronado and it was brought out that Ray Buxton, member of Red Cross Life Saving corps, had promised to take the orchestra members out in the boat but refused to do so in the heavy seas. The men then took the boat without permission, it was said, and now will be asked to pay the damages.

NOTATION IN MISSION BOOK SHOWS PRIEST SYMPATHIZED WITH AMERICAN REVOLUTION

An old book, found in the San Juan Capistrano Mission by the Rev. Father St. John O'Sullivan, resident pastor, has, written on the margin, these words: "I have this day prayed for the success at arms of Mr. George Washington, whose cause seems to be just." The writer evidently was one of the first priests at the mission.

In speaking of the discovery, Father O'Sullivan gave a bit of the mission history, which connects it somewhat with the epoch making days that were passing on the eastern coast at that time. He said:

"On June 15, 1775, 156 years ago last Monday, George Washington was appointed by the Second Continental Congress General, to command all the Continental forces. It is interesting to note that just four months later, Jose Francisco Ortega, and Fray Fermín de Lasuen arrived near the present site of Mission San Juan Capistrano, on October 30, 1775. Coming from the Mission at San Diego, they were looking for a location to establish another mission, but their stay here was short, for they were recalled by the Indian uprising at the San Diego Mission."

"History makes much of what took place on the eastern coast, from 1775, up through the war of 1812, but little is said of the work done by the mission founders during that same period. All through those years the Mission San Juan Capistrano was but one of the California chain that was in the building. Evidently there was some means of communication, most likely by boat around the Horn, between the east and west coast, for the forgotten priest who wrote on the margin of his book, seems familiar with the struggle that was taking place between the Colonies and England."

Dr. Ralph Arnold, eminent U. S. geologist, estimates this country's potential oil resources at 714,000,000 barrels. He says we have only used 2 per cent of our oil supply and that there is 140 years' supply of free oil ahead.

REV. OWINGS WELCOMED BY BREAKFASTERS

Members of the Santa Ana Breakfast club extended a royal and enthusiastic welcome home to President Harry Owings at their meeting this morning at Kerner's cafe. The president had just returned from a convocation at Kansas City. Following the regular program Guy Gilbert took charge of the meeting and presided while the members presented individual gifts to the returned president and accompanied their presentations with appropriate remarks.

The program this morning was under the direction of E. W. Coehms and featured the Gaylord School of the Dance. The major portion of the program was presented by the Six Gaylord Dancers in a series of solo and group dances. The surprise feature was offered by Miss Alice Laird, honorary member of the organization, who introduced Miss Hazel Page Everett, of Catalina, who sang two solos.

The members were again reminded of the special meeting next Thursday morning when Breakfasters will gather on the stage of the Fox Broadway theater. Eugene Kahan will be in charge of the breakfast and the program will be presented by Norman Sprowl, manager of the Fox theaters here.

Morning Gym Class Is To Repeat Picnic Pleasures

Members of the Tuesday Morning Gym class are planning another of their famous "Mother-Daughter" picnics tomorrow at Corona del Mar, where they expect to duplicate the pleasant features of the one held last week at the same inviting spot. They have made tomorrow's party a general one, inviting any mother who is interested, to join them in the outing. They will go to the beach about 10:30 o'clock in the morning, each member taking her own picnic fare. Swimming and beach sports will provide the day's entertainment.

At last week's party, the Gym class members observed their annual custom of celebrating the close of schools by taking the children to the beach for a day's pleasure. Contents of picnic baskets were shared, sand castles were erected, swimming enjoyed, and a series of rollicking games played on the shore.

One of the happiest features of the day was the presence of two mothers of club members, Mrs. H. H. Richards, accompanying her daughter, Miss Clara Richards, and Mrs. M. E. Head, with her daughter, Miss Percie Head. Despite the fact that both are octogenarians, they enjoyed the seaside outing with as much enthusiasm as that shown by the youngest child of all.

Others present were Mesdames T. W. Clark, C. C. Vogt, A. A. Granas, Harry Woodruff, Jacoby, Harry Gardner, F. H. White, Ray Snyder, Floyd Ellis, Frank Latham, A. A. Macander, A. F. L. Livenspire, R. R. Russick, and the junior guests, Audrey Granas, Aveline Latham, Bobby Russick, Jeanne Russick and Lura May Kent.

Woman's Club Closes Year's Program Activities

Closing a successful and enjoyable year of programs under the presidency of Mrs. W. H. Kuhn, Santa Ana Woman's club met Tuesday afternoon in the Congressional bungalow, with Mrs. Kuhn presiding over the session. In the absence of the secretary, Mrs. W. C. In her report, Mrs. Kuhn voiced her appreciation of the co-operation shown her throughout the year, by every member of the club and by her executive board, and expressed her pleasure in the contacts and activities of the year. Several new names have been added to the membership, and everything shows that the club is in a flourishing condition.

While Tuesday's meeting was the final formal one for the year, the clubwomen will meet once more before the mid-summer recess, when they hold their annual picnic. The date of Tuesday, June 23, has been set for this, and Mrs. W. C. Watkins will open her home at Coast Royal near Laguna Beach, for the all-day event. Party Incentive Found In Church Wedding Of Tonight

In anticipation of the wedding of Miss Gladys Stoneman and Chester Bratsch, which is to take place this evening in the chapel of the First Methodist church, Miss Helen Glancy entertained recently in her home, 1525 North Broadway. She was assisted by her mother, Mrs. A. N. Glancy.

It seemed especially appropriate that Miss Glancy should preside at one of the final pre-nuptial courtesies for the bride-elect, as the closest of friends since they began high school days together. It will be Miss Glancy's privilege to provide the piano music for the wedding.

Bridge was introduced as the game of the evening, and when scores were checked it was announced that Miss Mildred Calkins held high and Miss Verna Goodwin, second high. Miss Stoneman's gift from her assembled friends was a set of clear crystal including sherbets, goblets and plates.

The color scheme for the wedding tonight will be yellow and white, and this same motif was carried out in the appointments of the evening. Tables were prettily decorated with glowing yellow candles and black ware was used in serving. Refreshments were in keeping with the chosen theme.

Those asked to share Miss Glancy's hospitality other than the bride and groom, were the Misses Mildred Calkins, Beulah Dudgeon, Blanche Thompson, Louise Bryant, Dorothy Dresser, Miriam Adamson, Marie Smith, Katy Spicer, Lois Winslow, Ruth Goodwin, Verna Goodwin, Mary Ford, Dorothy Mayhew, Rowena Newcomb, Lorraine Turk, Eleanor Guyer, Hattie Bell Wall, Charles Swartz, Frances Kaudson, Marian Stull and Mesdames Lloyd Baker, Clark Barr, Russell Thompson and A. Approaching Marriage Is Incentive For Surprise Affair

It was in honor of Miss Ethel Hoffman's approaching marriage to James Collins that Miss Mabel Moore planned a party of recent date, bidding a group of friends to the Hoffman home in Costa Mesa. The affair proved to be a complete surprise to the honoree.

Bouquets of flowers were employed in decorating the home for the occasion, and of special charm were vases of Cecil Brunner roses and breath of heaven. Four tables of luncheon were in session, with Miss Hoffman scoring high and Miss Elva Boykin, low.

Following the awarding of prizes, packages for Miss Hoffman were wheeled in on a beautifully decorated cart by Frances Shaw, and the pretty gifts proved to be of miscellaneous order. With the conclusion of the affair refreshments of sandwiches, cake, coffee and fruit punch were served. A blue and white color scheme was carried out.

Those present to honor Miss Hoffman were the Misses Maybelle Allen, Opal Wilson, Elva Boykin, Margot Boyer, Ella Hoffman, Maxine Hoffman and Mesdames Otto F. Bridal Shower Gifts Are Presented in Unique Manner

A picturesque little gypsy maiden, pursuing her care-free way telling fortunes and selling trinkets, yesterday foretold an early marriage for Mrs. Lucille Brothers White, and also indicated that the immediate future held many happy gifts in store. And immediately the prophecy regarding the gifts came true, for the scene was a delightful luncheon and gift shower given by the Misses Gertrude and Louise Montgomery in their North Main street home as a compliment to Mrs. White, soon to become the bride of Donald Forest Daggett of Pasadena.

The sister hostesses were assisted by their mother, Mrs. Victor Montgomery, in entertaining, and the secluded garden at the rear of the home was a charming setting. Bright umbrellas shared with leafy arbors in providing shade for the luncheon tables, each spread with flower-embroidered linen. Rustic baskets of bright-colored blossoms combined with fern, centered each table, harmonizing with their sister flowers growing nearby. Many of the lovely blossoms had been sent by Mrs. Mit Phillips. Flower place cards were used, an apple-green crystal added its charm to the luncheon service.

While the guests were enjoying the delicious menu, kodak pictures were taken that the bride-elect might always have a pictured memento of the day. During the ensuing bridge contest, iced fruit punch was served from a flower-laden table spread with Chinese embroidered linen.

Mrs. Leonard Dalgie scored high, receiving a pretty breakfast cloth and napkins in blue linen damask. Mrs. W. B. Williams with second high score, was presented a lace dresser scarf with delicate flower motifs, and Mrs. Harold Segerstrom's third prize was of fine stationery.

In the meantime before the bridge games ended, there came the diversion that was unusual indeed for a social affair when the pretty young gypsy, passing the garden and seeing a group of people assembled, entered with her basket of beads, laces and trinkets. The hostesses, and their mother told her it was impossible to see her, but one of the guests laughingly suggested that she might tell fortunes, especially that of the honoree, Mrs. White.

The hostesses and the young Romy maid were so convincing in their roles that everyone was deceived, and the gypsy, in reality Miss Dorothy Ramsey, told half a dozen fortunes with cards and by palmistry. It was only when she finally read the palm of the bride-elect foretelling a speedy marriage, a home in Pasadena, and many gifts in the immediate future, that it was seen as a clever way of presenting the shower presents to Mrs. White.

One of her baskets had prettily wrapped packages concealed by laces and trinkets, and Miss Louise Montgomery brought countless other packages out to augment the store, while the happy bride-elect sat, surrounded by her friends, and unwrapped gift after gift. Pewter, linen and pottery were represented among the presents, the gifts from her hostesses being a double vegetable dish in pewter.

Asked to share the happy afternoon with the Misses Montgomery, their mother, Mrs. Victor Montgomery, and their honor guest, Mrs. White, were the latter's mother, Mrs. H. N. Brothers, Mrs. Jack Colvin of Huntington Beach, Mrs. Thomas Willis, Mrs. Leonard Dalgie, Mrs. W. B. Williams, Mrs. R. M. Alexander, Mrs. Alex Brownridge, Mrs. Harold Segerstrom, Mrs. Taeyer Montgomery, Mrs. Clarence Nielson, Mrs. Emmett Elliott, Miss Jessie Coons of Anaheim, Miss Ann Segerstrom, Miss Ida Segerstrom and Miss Ruth Armstrong.

CHURCH SOCIETIES

Beach Dinner
The Doris Welles auxiliary of the Foreign Missionary society of the First Methodist church met Monday evening with the Misses Olive and Bertha Briney in their beach cottage on Balboa island. Several of the members met earlier in the afternoon to enjoy the beach and prepare the dinner which was served at 7 o'clock. Following dinner Miss Gertrude Richardson called the meeting to order, and devotionals were led by Miss Alice Davidson. The lesson topic, "Influence of Christian Womanhood on the Nations" was presented by Mrs. Ivy Olson. About 30 members were present to take part in the affair and the business meeting which followed.

Standard Bearers
Corona Del Mar beckoned to Standard Bearers of the First Methodist church Monday when they held an all-day meeting there, with election of officers coming as an important feature of the day.

Following the report of the nominating committee Miss Betty Howell was chosen president; Miss Mary Beth Campbell, vice-president; Miss Genevieve Halderson, treasurer, Miss Margaret Guthrie, corresponding secretary. Miss Hearn presided over the meeting in the absence of the president.

At noon a typical picnic luncheon was served, with wieners and buns as the main course, and watermelon as the final delicacy. Beach sports in delightful variety were enjoyed.

During the course of the business meeting plans were made for the next meeting, Monday evening, July 13 in the home of Miss Roma Smith.

Those present at the beach meeting other than Mrs. W. D. Finn, advisor of the group, were the Misses Harriet Woodward, Dorothy Grizzle, Edna Hearn, Catherine Henderson, Fauntell Rentschler, Justina Palmer, Catherine Budd, May Beth Campbell, Margaret Guthrie, Jeannette Lutes, Betty Howell, Florence Ulrich, Luella Bale, Helen Holmes Robb and Mrs. Marilinda Arnold. Special guests included De Estine Finn, Miss Ruth Budd, Edward Budd, Miss Frances Miller and Jean Howell.

Thimble Club
Members of the Trinity Lutheran Thimble club were delightfully entertained last evening in the new home of Mr. and Mrs. George Heinmiller in Costa Mesa. Husbands of members were special guests at the affair.

Rooms of the home were prettily decorated with flowers for the occasion, and the evening was spent in playing 500 and other card games. At the close of the evening the hostess served refreshments of salad, sandwiches, coffee and cakes.

Eight and Forty Will Present Benefit Card Party

Members of the Eight and Forty, that social organization among the wives of the World War veterans, famous "Forty and Eight," shared in enjoyable evening Monday when they were entertained in the home of Mrs. Ruth Jellis, 1209 West Highland avenue.

There was a brief period devoted to business matters and conducted by Mrs. Marguerite Lutz, petite chapeau, after which the young matrons gave their attention to purely social affairs. Card tables were placed for bridge, and after several rounds of the game, Mrs. Rose Mellett of Costa Mesa, held high score. She was suitably rewarded and consolation gift was presented Mrs. Blanche Young.

Refreshments were served at the card tables, prettily arranged for serving, and as the members enjoyed the menu, they discussed plans for a public benefit party to be held on Tuesday night, June 20, at the home of Mrs. Edna Franzen, 161 North Cambridge street, Orange. This will be a garden affair, and friends and card players interested in attending, may telephone their reservations to Mrs. Ann Lelmer, Santa Ana 953R, or to Mrs. Franzen, Orange 957W.

Business Girls Have Social Meeting at Laguna Beach

Another of their social meetings was enjoyed Tuesday evening by members of the Wrycende Maeg-fenu club of the Y.W.C.A., who held a party at the M. Burr Wellington cottage at Laguna Beach.

Many members took a swim early in the evening, after which a picnic dinner was served. The committee in charge was headed by Miss Dorothy Beckman. Twenty-five members were present to take part in the dinner and the session of bridge which followed.

The new president, Miss Audrey Chastain, announced there would be two more social meetings on the summer program, one in July and one in August. It was also announced that the Asilomar conference would be held from August 8 to 15.

The MIXING BOWL by ANN MEREDITH

Spinach and Its Rivals

Don't forget our old friend, Spinach, now that it has so many handsome green rivals to displace it in your affections. They may look greener and taste better, but not one of them has the ability to do you all the good that spinach has, for it has almost a "corner" on organic iron.

Of all the green vegetables (cooked) that we eat, none has the high iron content of spinach. Organic iron is the best of tonics and blood builders. Don't pass it up thinking that you get a sufficiency in other vegetables.

Here is a new and delicious way to serve spinach.

Toasted Spinach

For four look over and cook about two pounds of nice spinach. Lift it from the rinsing water when it is cooked and add no more water than that which clings to the leaves. Cook with lid off so that the water will evaporate. Chop the spinach fine and season quite highly, using butter, salt, pepper, pinch of cayenne, and a little lemon juice. Have ready rounds of toast, cover with thick layer of the chopped spinach thickly with grated cheese and crumbs, dot with butter, slip under the broiler and toast the cheese a nice brown. Serve immediately.

Spinach toast with its cheese and butter might serve as the main part of a "vegetable plate."

TODAY'S RECIPE

Cantaloupe Salad Cup (For 6)

3 medium sized cantaloupes
1 box strawberries or large red raspberries
6 small peaches or apricots
1-2 small can grated pineapple
Mayonnaise with whipped egg white
Green garnish for plate.

This good looking salad serves both as salad and dessert. It's place is at luncheon or for a hot weather supper dessert.

Have all ingredients thoroughly chilled and do not mix the salad until ready to serve.

Cut the cantaloupes in half, cut a slice off the bottom so the "cup" will sit firmly on its plate. Carefully scoop out the flesh, dice it, mix with the grated pineapple and a little mayonnaise mixed with lemon.

Prepare the berries and peaches, dicing them, fold into the melon mixture, fill the "cups" and top with a spoonful of fluffy mayonnaise (egg white whipped into a mayonnaise last thing). A dash of paprika, something green to garnish the plate—and there you are!

Each salad has calories amounting to some 350 each. Not any of these calories matter much until we come to the mayonnaise. That's the energy unit in this combination, the rest of it just fills you up and does you a lot of good, generally speaking.

Fascinating Furnishings will fascinate you when you get your copy of the leaflet. If you need to renew shades in bathroom or bedroom you can do so at very little cost. If you want to make a good looking hassock for porch or beach cottage every step is described.

It's free this week... just send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dutch Apple Cake, made with the first summer apples, will be the recipe for tomorrow.

ANN MEREDITH.

Ebell Members Have Bridge Party as Last Meeting

A bridge party Tuesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. T. E. Stephenson, 1522 North Broadway, came as the last meeting of the season for members of the First Book Review section of Ebell society. Mrs. Stephenson, Mrs. W. H. De Wolfe, and Mrs. Wyckoff Hoxie were hostesses.

With the conclusion of the card games, two lovely books were awarded Mrs. Philip Hatfield and Mrs. Aldrie Worswick for scoring first and second high. As retiring leader of the section, Mrs. John Tessmann was presented with a travel book on behalf of the assembled members.

Late in the afternoon refreshments were served from a tea table prettily decorated with flowers.

A pump has been invented that is operated automatically by a float to remove water from flooded residence cellars.

Pargee-Eggers Wedding Is Church Event In Orange

Miss Lillian Eggers, attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Eggers, 1304 East Palmira avenue, Orange, became the bride of Edgar Pargee, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Pargee, also of Orange, at a lovely church wedding at the St. John's Lutheran church Tuesday night. The Rev. A. H. Bode, pastor of the church, read the service amidst a setting of palms and gladioluses.

Preceding the ceremony Miss Cora Pargee sang "O Perfect Love," accompanied by Henry Ehlen. Lohengrin's Wedding March as the processional, was played by Mr. Ehlen also.

The bride wore a gown of white satin fashioned with a tight fitting bodice and long full skirt. Her wedding veil was of tulle and was caught in a cap effect with orange blossoms. The strand of pearls she wore was a gift of the bridegroom and her bouquet was a shower of white roses.

Miss Gertrude Eggers as maid of honor wore orchid georgette over taffeta and carried yellow sweet peas. The bridesmaids were Miss Clara Beckman in green chiffon over taffeta, and carrying peach sweet peas, and Miss Evelyn Pargee in pink chiffon over pink taffeta and carrying pink sweetpeas. Robert Pargee served his brother as best man. Barbara Ann Ehlen was a cunning little flower girl in an old-fashioned floor length frock of white net over yellow taffeta.

Following the ceremony a wedding dinner was served to guests at the Walker Memorial hall. Tables were arranged in a star centered with the table at which the bride and groom and their attendants were seated. Appointments were in green and white.

Mrs. J. H. Eggers in beige georgette and yearling a corsage of yellow roses, and Mrs. A. F. Pargee in blue georgette with a similar corsage, received the guests. A program was given, Albert Bosch acting as toastmaster. Miss Cora Pargee sang a number of solos. Miss Lenore Peters gave several readings and Henry Ehlen played piano solos.

The young people left for the Yosemite on a honeymoon trip. The bride wore a black and white ensemble for traveling.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Pargee are graduates of the Orange union high school and Mr. Pargee is employed by the Kogler Hardware company of Orange. They will establish their home in that city.

DISAPPOINTMENT

Kitty Kelly and Mary Astor in a scene from "White Shoulders," which opens at the Fox Broadway theater today. The cast also includes Jack Holt and Ricardo Cortez.

PETER B. KYNE PICTURE OPENS AT WEST COAST

"Never the Twain Shall Meet," immortal story by Peter B. Kyne, comes to the Fox West Coast theater today for a two day run, Thursday and Friday.

Based on one of the most colorful romances ever written, it is not an epic, but one of the best stories the screen has told in months. The usual story, the natural beauty of the settings, and the appealing romance, make it an unusual screen offering.

Conchita Montenegro plays the part of the native girl, but she speaks in English throughout the entire play. Her slight accent is an asset rather than a handicap to the performance.

Weird dances, the ways of cast-off whites, the fiery passion of pagan girls, the degradation of those Caucasians who remain in the tropics, the contrast with the set manners and customs of civilization, all form a part of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's novel romance of the South Seas.

WALKER'S PRESENT 'NUMBERED MEN'

Primarily a love story with an unusual background, "Numbered Men" is seen at Walker's State theater today, on a double feature program, proves a stick of dramatic dynamite when, through comedy and pathos, it comes to a really powerful climax.

Conrad Nagel, Bernice Claire and Raymond Hackett are featured, Nagel getting a very unusual part that is powerful and yet has no love interest. In the end he makes a tremendous sacrifice for the youngsters. That's high drama.

A comedy cast of adults and juveniles, known wherever motion pictures are shown is in the other feature on the program, "Finn and Hattie," the Donald Ogden Stewart comedy. The story is from the famous humor novel, "Mr. and Mrs. Haddock Abroad." In the cast are Leon Errol, Zasu Pitts, Mitzel Green and Jackie Searl.

SPEAKING OF NAMES

LONDON—What is believed to be one of the longest, if not the longest name, in the world is that of a woman at Somerset House. Her name is Ann Borlase, Cecelia Diana Emily Fanny Gertrude Hyppatia Inez Jane Kate Louisa Maud Nora Ophelia Quince Rebecca Starkey Teresa Ulysses Venus Winifred Xenophon Yetta Zenus Pepper—one name for every letter of the alphabet.

'WHITE SHOULDERS' OPENS AT B'DWAY

She wanted love, not jewels. Yet he persisted in bedecking her with glittering daubies while all she wanted was simple affection, a home—and happiness.

This is the theme of Radio Pictures' "White Shoulders," the compelling Rex Beach story which opens today at the Fox Broadway theater.

The story is the reverse of the accepted motion picture theme, instead of marrying for money and position, as many chorus girls are reputed doing, this girl of the stage married for love.

And the man decorated her with jewels. The result was inevitable when another man entered the scene.

"White Shoulders," which was directed by Melville Brown, includes such noted players as Mary Astor, Jack Holt and Ricardo Cortez, supported by Kitty Kelly and Sidney Toler.

End Piles Quick

Your itching, bleeding, protruding piles will go when you actually remove the cause—bad blood circulation in the weak, flabby parts—and not one minute before. Salves or cutting can't do this—an internal remedy must be used. HEM-ROID, prescription of Dr. J. S. Leonard, succeeds because it stimulates the circulation, drives out congested blood, heals and restores the almost dead parts. HEM-ROID has such a wonderful record right in this city that McCoy Drug Co. says one bottle of HEM-ROID will cure your pile agony or money back—Adv.

Rough Ride For Sailor, Companions

LAGUNA BEACH, June 18.—When the artists of Laguna Beach succeeded in having an ordinance passed eliminating concessions from the beaches, they didn't figure on visitors making their own. Willard Clinton Head, a sailor on the U. S. S. Colorado and three companions, one of them a girl, succeeded in "shooting the chutes" in an automobile early yesterday in a fashion that would put to shame the famous concession invented by Captain Boynton of rubber swimming suit fame.

Head and his friends were passing through Laguna Beach shortly after 2 a. m. when they decided to park their roadster on the edge of the bluff at the foot of Brooks street for a sight of the ocean by starlight. Head failed to leave the auto in gear and when the brake was loosened accidentally the car shot over the 25-foot embankment, bounced from a level 10 feet below to another five feet below that and then to the sand. The jolt or combination of jolt and body push put the machine in gear and it had traveled 400 feet into the briny before Head brought it to a stop. The water is shallow at that point and the four climbed out into water waist deep and waded ashore. Night Watchman Ben Elliott was notified and the sailors and their girlfriend rescued their clothes at a garage. It required several hours work to rescue the car and the damage will not exceed $75.

The next meeting of the chapter will be held in the cabin, Gobar said.

July 3 will be Business Men's day. The Orange County Riding club will put on some stunts with their horses and give exhibitions of fancy saddle horse riding. There will be a wedding at the grand stand at the carnival entrance at Fifth and Ocean. The names of the bride and groom are to be kept secret. The bride is a graduate of the high school and member of a prominent Huntington Beach family. The groom is a well known young orange grower of Orange county.

July 4 will be marked by a spectacular fireworks display, a golf tournament, sporting events and patriotic program with vaudeville and swimming at the sea water plunge and in the ocean.

July 5, closing day of the program, will be marked by games, sports, contests and special entertainment features.

How One Woman Lost 102 Lbs. of Fat

Almost Unbelievable—Nevertheless True

Dear Friends:

You advertise Kruschen Salts for reducing, so I finally tried them and when I started I weighed 219 pounds and when I took them for a year and 3 weeks, I lost exactly 102 pounds.

I am 23 years old and I look at least 5 years younger now than I did when I was fat. I have a picture of myself before and after so if you want to see them let me know.

I am always telling my friends about the wonderful salts. I am always advertising them.

I took 2 bottles every month for a year and 3 weeks. It amounted to $25 for reducing 102 pounds but it was worth it.

If I can be of any help to you let me know.

Yours truly, Miss Nellie Simpson, 1903 Wayne Street, Swissvale, Pa., Oct. 31, 1930.

SCHOOL FACTS PRESENTED AT LAGUNA BEACH

LAGUNA BEACH, June 18.—The dilemma in which the Laguna Beach school district found itself when the people failed to vote for the formation of a local high school district, after withdrawing from Tustin high, was explained to members of the Wednesday Lunch club yesterday by Ray Adkinson, county superintendent of schools, and J. W. Means, principal of the Tustin school. The school men also explained just what may be done by the people of the Laguna district to fortify themselves for the future. Several courses are open.

Superintendent Adkinson explained that the Laguna district now is a free lance body, whose only valuable asset for high school purposes is a two-year contract with Tustin to take care of the pupils. After considering the matter, a new petition can be made to the superintendent for the call to a new election. If that is successful the new district can make its own contracts and either build a high school or continue contracting its pupils with other schools indefinitely. If the election fails, then by July 1, 1932, the superintendent must annex the Laguna district either to Tustin or the Capistrano district.

Newport Beach is out of consideration because the territories are not contiguous. But Mr. Adkinson explained that if he should decide to annex Laguna Beach to a district and the people were not satisfied, they could call an election to decide it for themselves.

During the campaign for the school district it was stated by school officials that if Laguna Beach were re-annexed to Tustin that it would be necessary to pass a new bond issue to care for the growing registration of that school. Mr. Means applied that by declaring plans have been prepared for buildings that will double the capacity of the school by using the surplus and imposing the regular tax allowed by law.

It was made clear that if a district is formed in Laguna Beach, whether or not bonds are passed for a high school building, that the new board will have power to make contracts that will take care of the education of the children of high school age by paying the pro rata cost of education based on the daily average attendance and that a tax up to 75 cents on the $100 may be imposed for this purpose.

Playgrounds Draw 200 Children From Fullerton District

FULLERTON, June 18.—Nearly 200 Fullerton children have registered at the three supervised playgrounds in the city, according to announcement made today by Arthur Johnson, director, who expressed the opinion that the total number of children in the playground would pass the number of last year. The seasons will continue for three weeks.

The daily program from 1:30 p. m. to 5 p. m. will be divided into five periods. The first will be free play, including use of apparatus on the grounds, such as swings, teeters, croquet, horse shoes, kick ball and sandboxes.

The second period will feature organized games under leadership of the supervisor of each playground. Story-telling will occupy the third section and athletics, including competitive games, will conclude the day's activities.

Placentia School Board Drops Plan For New Building

PLACENTIA, June 18.—The plan of the Placentia Union grammar school board of trustees to build another unit at La Jolla and have a complete eight-grade school there was given up when the trustees held a special meeting this week, as they felt that it was not the proper time to put over a bond issue.

Extra room will be needed at La Jolla, however, and it is planned to remodel the old Commonwealth school for this purpose.

A new Mack chassis is to be purchased and the board is advertising for bids for a chassis and top. The school budget is being completed and will be ready some time this week.

THE REGISTER'S POSITION

In another column will be found on open letter to the editor of The Register, relating to an editorial entitled "The Chamber of Commerce," which we published on Tuesday evening.

The writer says that he did not know whether The Register favored the taxpayers of the city, or the small group represented in the Chamber of Commerce. The Register desires to say, as far as the people are concerned, it favors the people, which includes the group in the Chamber of Commerce.

The writer further asks whether the commendation of the Chamber of Commerce carried with it the approval of the request for $8422 of tax money to go for certain purposes, and questioned whether we were sincere in suggesting that contributions be made primarily by those who are immediately benefited.

We desire to say to the writer of this letter, and to the readers, we tried to emphasize in that editorial that criticism of policy did not mean a criticism of a body of men or of individuals, personally. We are for the people, we are for the Chamber of Commerce, and even the "small group" which may represent the Chamber of Commerce.

We did not feel that the occasion required any serious criticism of the Chamber or its action. We tried as delicately as we could to express our opinion of it. It may have been too delicate for the writer of this article, and possibly for other readers of the paper. Frankly, we believe, as a proposition, the expenditure of taxpayers' money in all cases should be expended under the immediate direction of those who have been elected for the purpose, by the voters of any particular governmental unit. The trusteeship which is imposed upon our representatives, carries with it the obligation not only to spend money in a way that it may be wisely spent, but that they should spend the taxpayers' money in a way that the trustee, the representative elected by the people, shall himself be responsible for its expenditure, and as far as possible, shall be responsible for saving it. In our mind, the wisdom of expenditure does not enter into this phase of it at all.

In respect to the use of money that is designed for advertising purposes, we are of the opinion that the relatively small amount of money which the council considers the city able to spend, could be spent more profitably in intensive advertising, in reaching the visitors from the East, who have been induced by the general advertising, to come out to the Pacific Coast, than to use it as a separate sum in any form in what we call the Eastern market.

The all-the-Year-Round club, together with the vast amount of railroad publicity and advertising, is doing the great work of general publicity and advertising in the East. This is true at all times. It is difficult, through any publicity or advertising, or in any other way, than through personal letters of friends, to have the minds of Eastern people directed to any point on the Pacific Coast, except that point have the unusual advantages, standing out prominently in respect to size or education, or something of that character, such as Los Angeles, San Francisco or Palo Alto.

In this particular economic period, most people are keeping things, if they can, in "status quo." Some are being driven hither and thither by economic pressure. It is a time when the interests of all, in a town like Santa Ana, or in Orange County, should center in the county in an intensive way.

Nothing is farther from our desire than to be misunderstood editorially. The allowance arranged for by law for publicity or advertising purposes, through assessments upon taxpayers, is permissive to the city and not compulsory. Expenditure under it can be raised or lowered, reduced to the minimum or entirely eliminated, if it is thought desirable.

It rests with the city council. They are the trustees of the city. Responsibility must rest with them in the application of wise business principles, in the light of the conditions at any particular time.

Certainly we feel that we have written with such clarity for the writers and others to understand the position of The Register.

JEFFERSON DAVIS AGAIN AT THE CAPITOL

When over 70 years ago he withdrew to throw in his lot with the seceding states of the South, and to become the head of the government in insurrection against the Union, Jefferson Davis now returns in bronze to take his place among the great men of the nation which he would have destroyed.

The bitterness of hate which fell upon him after the fall of the Confederacy, which confined him for two years, part of the time in irons, in a Union fortress, has long since been forgotten. The song on the lips of millions, "We'll hang Jeff Davis to a Sour Apple Tree," is sung to mark an epoch, not to continue divisive hate. Jefferson Davis is now thought of as one of those honest men who engaged in a Lost Cause, no longer to be remembered as an enemy, but as one who followed the light of conscience. Great is the softening influence of time. How noble it is for a man to bury his hate, and to observe unperturbed and uncritical the payment of honor to an offender for whom at one time the gallows would have been a punishment none too great to inflict.

We are certain that it is not in the spirit of bravado or of challenge that the state of Mississippi now places his statue in the National Capitol. Rather in veneration of one of her sons who shared with all her people of a former generation in suffering and sacrifice for a cause which they believed to be just. And the every loyal people of the nation do themselves honor when they respect and reverence the sentiment of the people of Mississippi as they seem to say, "By-gones are by-gones. We are glad to see your favorite son back again amid the scenes where he once played an important part. We are one again."

"AN EXECUTION—NOT A TRIAL"

We were not surprised at the attitude that Governor Rolph assumed in respect to the desires of Huntington Beach, and the many representatives from Orange County.

The Governor did not visit the location, and he did not see that already the principal institution which was fighting Huntington Beach, has usurped a part of the tidelands for oil purposes. Big interests were opposed to Huntington Beach in its action,—interests whose powers are distributed all over California.

It was believed by many friends of Huntington Beach, that the fact that this would mean probably an income to Huntington Beach of possibly a half-million dollars a year, and the same amount to the state, would have a great appeal to the Governor, as the Chief Executive of the state, looking after the business interests of California. But it seems sometimes that Governor Rolph enjoys spending money more than watching it come in, and if this had been a joint expenditure of this amount, it may have had greater appeal to his peculiar temperament.

But Huntington Beach and Orange County may have the consolation of knowing that what is Huntington Beach's loss is the gain of a great oil corporation. While in a sense, it is a rather compulsory gift that the state and city make, under the circumstances, yet the city should get what consolation it can out of the thought that "It is more blessed to give than to receive," and also the fact that the Legislature was practically unanimous in endeavoring to grant the city and the people their rights under the law.

It was only the fact that it was necessary for the Governor's signature to be on the bill to prevent the intent of the legislators, the representatives of the people, from being carried into effect. This is one of the penalties we endure for the use of the veto by the governor. There are times when this veto is necessary to protect the people from ill thought-out legislation.

We sympathize with those who tried to present the matter in orderly fashion at the hearing. It is too bad that the time and gasoline were wasted, for according to reports, the hearing had already been heard; the powder had already been burned up. The Huntington Beach people and their friends were attending an execution,—not a trial.

Temperament and Avoirdupois

New York Times

As the most economical method of "slimming," The London Times suggests yielding to rage or fear. Science has proved on animal subjects that violent emotions burn up pounds of fat. A dog and cat were placed in a twin cage, and it was observed that the angrier the dog became in his efforts to get at his prey the more frightened the cat grew, and the more weight was lost on both sides of the cage.

Yet the woman of too ample proportions who decides to go in for emotional reducing may find that it isn't cheap after all. Rage and terror, habitually indulged in, may dig such lines in her face that the beauty specialist's charge for massaging them away may mount high.

Then, too, the fat woman, being naturally serene and peace-loving, will find it hard to fly into a rage. There's no fun in it for her. And if she does, who's to bear the brunt of her anger? If it's the maid or the chauffeur or the cook, they'll be giving notice. If she flies out at her friends, even in so good a cause as health-seeking, they will soon desert her. And if a sort of modern whipping-boy must be engaged for the post,

Most methods of getting rid of too, too solid flesh are disagreeable, but it is better to go without your favorite whipped cream desserts, or to be pinched and slapped and pounded in the midriff, for the sake of a slim waist, than to upset a household with rage-reducing. After all, fashion is now veering toward curves and plumpness, so there is not the pressing need of recent years to change the old saw, "Laugh and grow fat," into "Sow! and grow slim."

This Celebrity Tries to Stop Flood of Appeals

San Bernardino Sun

Knut Hamsun, Norwegian author and Nobel prize winner, has recently given away to various institutions, some amounting to some thousands of dollars. His reason for doing this at this time and for making his generosity public deserves mention. Ever since winning the Nobel prize, he says, he has received great numbers of begging letters. He could have given away several fortunes—if he had possessed them—and still not satisfied all the demands made on him. He decided to put himself in a position of not being able to give any more, so he held back enough to live on comfortably, and gave away the rest.

Mr. Hamsun might simply have ignored the begging letters, hiring a secretary to read them and dispose of them. He chose an unusual way to end the flood. We hope for his sake that this method works.

All this is interesting because Knut Hamsun's experience is the experience of anyone with any prominence who received a large—or not so large—cash prize. There seem to be innumerable people in the world who do nothing else but write to celebrities for financial aid for themselves or their pet schemes.

More Truth Than Poetry

TO AN APHIS

You have your private view of life;
You naturally take for granted
Your right to feed yourself and wife
Upon the fruit that I have planted.
You watch me, as I till the soil
While you look on, without employment
And, doubtless fancy that I toil
For your enjoyment.

You have no sense of wrong or right;
So, when my daily task is ended
You state your avid appetite
Among the trees I've watched and tended.
And when vast havoc you have wrought,
Your greedy tendencies pursuing,
You harbor not a single thought
Of evil-doing.

Had I your guileless point of view—
Although of course there is no knowing—
I rather fancy that I too
Would reap where others have been sowing.
More soft and pleasing would be life
If one might live upon his neighbors
And not engage in weary strife
And irksome labors.

No more morality I claim
Than yours—I do not scorn nor hate you,
Dumb, guileless thing, but just the same,
I'm going to assassinate you.
You should have known, poor witless fool,
That when another's interests hinder
Our own designs, the Golden Rule
Get smashed to flinders.

THERE'S A DIFFERENCE
Times won't get better until business is put on a sound basis
Instead of a noise basis.

is the beginning of the picnic season.

Shall We Abolish Profits?

By WILLIAM TRUFANT FOSTER and WADDILL CATCHINGS

Profits and losses result mainly from uncertainties which are inherent in the nature of business. Chief among these uncertainties is human nature.

The end of business enterprise is consumption. Production, therefore, looks for its regulator to distribution; and distribution in turn is regulated by the flow of money through consumers' markets.

This flow of money is directed solely by the daily exercise of freedom of choice on the part of millions of consumers.

What will these consumers want? How much will they buy at a given price? When will they buy? Where will they buy? Nobody can answer these questions in advance. Nobody can forecast the vagaries of human nature.

This uncertainty results largely from the three options enjoyed by the holder of money. He can buy WHEN he will, WHAT he will, and WHERE he will.

He may withhold his money from circulation as long as he pleases; at least that part which he does not need to pay taxes and to keep him alive.

He may buy a coat of the latest style (new consumers' goods); or he may order a tractor (new capital goods); or he may invest in rare books (old consumers' goods); or he may buy a factory (old capital goods). He may spend his money locally, nationally, or internationally; by mail, telegraph, or cable, wherever money exchange is in working order.

This geographical range of choice gives rise to some of the chief risks of business. Because of these choices as to time and goods and place, which go with money, the buyer is almost always in a strategic position. Ordinarily, the seller is the chief risk-bearer. The chief risks of business, therefore, grow out of the consumers' freedom of choice.

Shall we, therefore, do away with freedom of choice? Shall we abolish profits and try the Russian experiment? (Copyright, 1931, McClure Newspaper Syndicate)

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

DESERTING BOHEMIA

Yesterday I spoke of what seems to me signs of a return from the extremes of the cult of self-expression that prevailed in the immediate post-war decade to the sanities of self-discipline.

This shift in the mood of youth, which I think I sense, is not due so much to a sudden reversal of ethical judgment as to a practical realization that "bohemianism" is a sheer waste of vital energies and a sure route to futile careers.

I remember vividly the days, fifteen or more years ago, when the young writers and young artists of New York were going in rather heavily for the irregularities of bohemianism.

In those days youth, smitten with literary and artistic ambitions, were given to huddling together in little colonies—like Greenwich Village—where they lived, they were wont to say, above the battle of the ordinary contentions about morals and manners.

Those were the days of the great emancipation! Men and women were looking for what they called release!

They could not, they said, be bound in mind or morals by any of the chains of yesterday if they were to create beautiful and enduring works of art.

That mood and that movement are now pretty thoroughly shot to pieces.

It is becoming more and more difficult to locate Bohemia on the artistic map.

What has effected this change? Billy Sunday has not swooped down on Greenwich Village and lured the loose lives of yesterday down the sawdust trail.

No! It is simply that all save the dreaming incompetents of the artistic world have learned that creative art demands a decently strict husbanding of the artist's vital energies and intensity of application.

Morals can afford to stand on the sidelines and let art, imperious mistress that she is, whip her worshippers and lovers into acknowledgment that self-expression without self-discipline becomes but something to talk about over coffee and cognac.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

GETTING WELL

Frankie had been ill. He had undergone a severe operation and for a time his family were gravely concerned about him. But he got well surprisingly fast once he started to mend. "He will not know it happened in a week or so," said the physician proudly.

But he did, he kept right on knowing it happened and demanding the attention his illness had brought him although his health was completely restored. He refused to stay alone for a minute. He insisted that some member of the family, depending upon which one he chanced to think about, should read to him, tell him stories, stroke his head, sing for him, amuse him generally.

"I want grandpa to sing to me."

"But Frankie, Grandpa is tired. He has just gone to his room for a nap. He has been with you a lot today. Now let Grandpa rest a little."

"I want grandpa. I want grandpa—pa—aa—h."

"There, there, now don't excite yourself. You'll bring on a temperature. If you must have grandpa why of course he will come. But really—"

"I want—"

"All right, all right. I'll call him."

Of course this sort of thing became unbearable. The family were between the devil and the deep sea. If they kept on giving Frankie his way they could not live in peace a single hour of the day. If they tried to check him he was likely to be ill.

"Not a bit of it," said the doctor.

"Send Grandpa away for a while. Put the young man on his old schedule and hold him to it. Tell him as he goes to bed tonight that he is quite well again and that you expect him to behave as though he was and stick to it. Have no fear of his making himself ill. He won't. You'll have a hard day or two breaking him in again but if you act as though you had made up your mind once and for all that Frankie is well, he will believe it too."

Illness breaks all habits. But as soon as a child is well enough to control himself again let him do so. Help him to get back to health by giving him the support of the old routine. It will quickly re-establish itself if you half try and the child will get well much faster. It is no kindness to a child to tell him how ill he has been. Let him forget all about it. Talk as little about it as possible and drop all the bedside manners and habits. The less a child thinks about the condition of his body the healthier he will be.

The temptation to pet a convalescent child is strong. Some petting is due him, but try to see that it is enough and no more. Try to get him to love health and his ways. Drop all thought of illness as soon as his condition permits and he will be the better for it. And so will you and all your house.

CATALONIA'S THREAT

On June 18, 1917, the province of Catalonia, which embraces the city of Barcelona, was in political ferment and threatened to secede from Spanish dominion.

The revolutionary protest in Catalonia was provoked because of the pro-German feeling of the Conservatives, led by Eduardo Dato, the new minister.

Barcelona's deputy, Senor Lerroux, said that Spain's failure to enter the war on the side of the Allies would be indication of her impotence, fear and incapacity.

Reports from Madrid on this day indicated that the demand for radical reforms was acute all over Spain and that a thorough liberalization of the electoral, military and economic laws was inevitable.

On this day on the western front the French captured a German salient in Champagne between Mont Carnillet and Mont Blond; and the British felt back east of Monchy-le-Preux.
